City Banks Still Cool to Lottery

Slim Inducement One Complaint

BY WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Most of the banks in Kingston are reluctant to participate in sale of New York State Lottery tickets, and some refuse to vend tickets because of the 5 per cent commission tentatively fixed for each $1 ticket.

Banks and others eligible to register with the regional distributor for the lottery tickets contend that 10 per cent commission might have been a slim inducement to take part in the sale of the tickets when they go on the market shortly after June 1.

Among the potential outlets, banks throughout the area earlier had asked for 10 per cent commission. Hotels and motels had asked for up to 12 per cent and the Western Union also asked for 12 per cent.

Commission 'Tentative'

State Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy, who is in charge of the forthcoming lottery, emphasized that the 5 per cent commission was "tentative" and would be reviewed after a six-month trial period to see whether it should be revised.

A new York congressman is pressing for action on his bill that would prohibit federally chartered banks or banks with federal insurance provisions from acting as sales agents for the lottery.

Rep. John M. Murphy, a Staten Island Democrat, asked that the House Banking Committee hold prompt hearings on his proposal. Murphy said an opinion by the counsel for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board supported his contention that banks should not be used as sales sites for lottery tickets.

At Least 10 PC

Some bankers in the area feel that now is the time—right at the start of the lottery ticket sale—to offer at least 10 per cent, which they contend would "cover expenses." Others expressed the opinion that the tickets should be sold for $2 or $3 so that the percentage of commission could be increased to a reasonable figure.

Few banks in the area, including two in Kingston, registered as lottery sales agents with the First Westchester National Bank, regional distributor for this area. It is understood that those that did not register before the deadline several days ago, cannot register to participate in the lottery ticket sales for a year.

A prominent Poughkeepsie banker said his bank at present had not applied to vend tickets. "From what we can determine," he said, "there are so many unknowns that it is best to withhold for the time being from the program."

'Expensive for Banks'

A bank official said in his opinion the lottery ticket program "is expensive on the part of the bank, would mean additional personnel and would require additional audits." Another said, "a lot of banks are not too pleased with the lottery — they think it detracts from the image of a bank as a conservative, thrifty place." An official at the State of New York National Bank said that the bank intends to sell lottery tickets "as of now" and had registered with the regional distributor. The Roundout National Bank will participate in the program "for the time being," a spokesman said.

Some Still Ponder

Other banks in Kingston either had reached no definite decision or had definitely decided not to sell the tickets.

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association is still pondering over the program. An official said that the general

Freight Crash Kills 7

NEW YORK (AP)—Two freight trains collided head-on in an upper Manhattan railroad yard today and at least seven were reported dead in a piled-up tangle of wreckage of engines and freight cars.

Fire swept the wreckage, and police said there might be more bodies buried underneath.

Dozen Other Injuries
Fire officials had reported at least a dozen others were injured.

The two three-unit engines smashed into each other on the northbound express track of the 130th Street yard of the New York Central Railroad, near Riverside Drive. The collision occurred near West 148th Street. The engine units were piled three deep at the point of impact, and a dozen freight cars were derailed.

One Selkirk-Bound

There was no immediate explanation of why the trains, one bound for a terminal at 3rd Street, south of the scene, the other bound for the Selkirk yard near Albany to the North, were on the same track.

The tracks were so torn up by the collision and buried under wreckage that it was difficult immediately to determine the positions of the trains before the crash.

A box car loaded with bundled paper bags had telescoped, bursting into a mountain of litter.

One victim of the collision was reported to have been taken to Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, bleeding badly. The Red Cross reported it was rushing extra blood and blood serum to the medical center and Knickerbocker Hospital.

Albany Men Injured

Two injured taken to Knickerbocker Hospital were identified as Leo Bolduc, 53, of Albany, a brakeman, suffering from a broken arm, suffering from shock, and Led Duke, 40, of Albany, in critical condition with bad burns on his body.

1777 Review In Freeman On Tuesday

On Tuesday, May 23, The Freeman will present a special tabloid-size supplement depicting the events surrounding the state's first Constitutional Convention held in Kingston in 1777 along with the burning of the village on October 16 of that year.

There will be feature stories, photographs and historical notes relating to this most significant time in the city's past.

Much research has gone into the making up of the supplement and vivid descriptions will give the reader the flavor of those ancient times.

Included will be pictures of old stone houses which figured directly in those thrilling events which saw the birth of the state's first constitution and the almost complete destruction of the town.

Tax Map Plea Going to Board

At the urging of the Ulster County school districts, bar associations, realtors and other organizations throughout the county, the Tax Base Study Committee and the Committee on Industrial Development will recommend to the Board of Supervisors that a county-wide tax map be made for the purpose of equalizing taxes.

First Step

Preparing these maps is a first step in a tax equalization program. According to Supervisor Clarence C. Raichle, 12th ward Republican, the present records and method of assessing properties are not only inadequate but "totally unfair to the great majority of taxpayers in the county."

Many of properties are not even listed on the tax rolls while others are for incorrect amounts, with some taxpayers paying too much while others are paying too little, Raichle said.

The county, according to Raichle, cannot provide the additional services which the people are demanding without placing a very heavy burden on those who are already paying too much.

Ulster County is far behind many of smaller and more rural counties in the states who have completed their equalization programs and now tax on a uniform basis. This program is urgently needed and should not be delayed because the cost of education rises every year along with other county charges. Also because growth is hampered by this method of taxing, the 12th ward supervisor said.

Thorough Study

"With this kind of urging we have received from these groups and organizations, the joint committees have studied this situation thoroughly," said Raichle. "For the past two years they have had discussions with the State Board of Equalization, visited other counties whose taxes have been equalized, and were impressed with the results."

Qualified mapping firms have been interviewed, proposals have been received and the only thing remaining to be done at this time is for the joint committee to introduce a resolution to the Board of Supervisors requesting this work to be done immediately.

Thoroughly the offer of the mapping firm which agreed to finance this project over a five-year period at no cost to the

U.S. Planes Bomb Hanoi; Ignore Truce

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. planes ignored the Communist cease-fire for Buddha's birthday today and raided Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. Pilots reported shooting down one MIG jet.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the planes subjected northern and southern sections of Hanoi "to massive bombings."

The U.S. Air Force did not say what targets were attacked.

Without Power, Water

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported from Hanoi that the North Vietnamese capital was without electricity and water following Sunday's U.S. air raid on a power plant. Most of the plant was damaged, CTK added.

The Communists ushered in their two-day cease-fire with a dozen heavy mortar attacks before the deadline and a later attack on a U.S. force killed 15 Americans and wounded 71. The Communists also blew the tracks from beneath a South Vietnamese military train nearly three hours after their 48-hour cease-fire was to have become effective at 7 a.m. Saigon time, or 7 p.m. EDT Sunday.

South Vietnamese and allied forces had said they would not begin their 24-hour truce for Buddha's birthday until one minute after midnight tonight, or 12:01 p.m. EDT today. The Communists caught a unit of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division as it was moving out on a sweep mission in the central highlands 33 miles southwest of Pleiku and at 7:02 a.m. opened up with intense mortar and rocket grenade fire.

Kill 31 Enemy

U.S. headquarters said the American infantry battled an estimated Red battalion of perhaps 500 men for four hours. Thirty-two of the enemy were reported killed.

Under the generally understood ground rules for cease-fires in Vietnam, the Reds could have considered the U.S. sweep as an offensive action and their attack as self-defense.

After hard fighting Sunday just below the demilitarized zone, U.S. military headquarters said no contacts were reported today along the Ben Hai River line in the zone where U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops were consolidating their positions.

About 1,000 Marines overran Communist positions Sunday near the Leatherneck outpost at Con Thien. A U.S. spokesman said 36 North Vietnamese soldiers and 26 Marines were killed and 59 Marines were wounded.

In the 12 hours before the Red cease-fire, the Communists lashed out with mortar barrages on American and Vietnamese posts up and down South Vietnam.

Upstaters Killed In DMZ Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Marine corporals from opposite ends of New York State have been killed in the fighting near the demilitarized zone of Vietnam, spokesmen for the men's families said Sunday.

Lancee Cpl. Robert O. Barry, 23, of the Town of Queensbury, near Glens Falls, was killed by rifle fire last Tuesday, the family learned Sunday.

Marine Cpl. Orrie Macomb Jr., of the Town of Great Valley, near Salamanca, was shot Friday during an assault into the DMZ, his parents said. Marine authorities told them.

Barry entered the Marines in 1966 and had been in Vietnam for about four months, serving with the 26th Marines.

He was a graduate of Glens Falls High School.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barry.

Macomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Macomb Sr., was married and the father of a six-month-old son. His wife, Donna, and the child, live with her parents in Ellipticville.

Macomb joined the Marines in November 1965 after attending Salamanca Central High School. He had been in Vietnam since April 16.

Pressure on Long Over Hoffa Case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., says certain federal agencies out to get him apparently are behind reports he misused his Senate investigating committee in an attempt to keep Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa out of prison.

"It's gotten back to me more than once that members of these agencies have said, 'We'll get Sen. Long,' and I suppose that's where the whole thing started," Long said Sunday.

He referred to a Life magazine article that charges he manipulated an investigation of wiretapping and federal snooping by his subcommittee on practices and procedures to keep Hoffa out of jail.

After Hoffa was convicted—he alleges it was on the basis of wiretap evidence—Long tried to have the verdict reversed, the magazine said. Hoffa lost an appeal for a new trial May 10 in U.S. District Court, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Must Inspect 1964 Vehicles

ALBANY — Owners of 1964 model automobiles and trucks who renewed their registrations last October and November, but who have not as yet had the vehicles safety inspected, must have the work performed within the next week and a half according to law.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany today pointed out that the vehicles of the 1964 model year were exempted from the rule that inspection approval is a requirement for renewing registrations under the transition schedule for the amended vehicle inspection law.

Under that schedule, the owners were given the opportunity to defer complying with the law until June 1, but could have the safety check performed any time during the intervening months until the deadline.

If they did have the inspection since renewal of the registration in October or November, and the vehicle passed, another inspection is not necessary, the Commissioner said.

If it was not done, he urged owners not to wait any longer. It will be unlawful to drive 1964 vehicles after May 31 without the approval sticker.

Bridge Counting Good Defense Tactic

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim: "Books seem to be arriving from all directions these days."

Oswald: "Here's one called 'Killing Defense at Bridge' by the Scottish expert H. W. Kelsey."

Jim: "He stresses counting as the basis of good defense and starts with the sort of elementary hand that looks easy when you see all the cards but should be just about as easy at the table."

Oswald: "Mr. Kelsey does not comment on West's choice of the ace of clubs as his opening lead. He just points out that West does make the lead. Nor does he comment on East's choice of his lowest club."

Jim: "His, Mr. Kelsey's comment on the first trick is that West opens the ace of clubs. East plays the four and South the three. He does not discuss the merit of that lead since he is concerned with West's problem at trick two."

Oswald: "He points out that if West reviews the bidding he will expect South to hold at least ten cards in the majors and that there will be little or no chance to defeat the contract unless the defense can pick up two diamond tricks. He suggests, quite correctly, that West should lead his three of diamonds and go after those two diamond tricks right away."

Jim: "The diamond shift produces those two tricks and South will also have to lose a heart later on."

Oswald: "He fails to point out that East made a very fine play when he followed with the four of clubs. Most players would automatically drop the seven. East had obviously counted declarer's hand also, but would still have played the seven if he did not want his partner to make the natural shift to a diamond."

Drivers Halt Upstate Tieup On Construction

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—About 200 drivers of ready-mix concrete trucks returned to work today, signaling the end of a walkout that had hampered construction in the Rochester area for five weeks.

The end to the walkout came Sunday as members of Teamsters Material Drivers Local 398 ratified a three-year contract that had been rejected by a slim margin last Tuesday. The vote Sunday was about 125 to 47 for approval, a union spokesman said.

The pact calls for a $1.19-an-hour increase in pay and fringe benefits. The second vote was scheduled when union leaders supported the settlement and management negotiators refused to add to it.

During the walkout, which began April 11, work on such projects as the Xerox Tower office building here and the Henrietta campus of Monroe County Community College was slowed by the shortage of concrete.

The drivers' settlement ended the last of a recent series of walkouts by construction unions here. Locals representing such workers as bricklayers, masons, operating engineers, dump-truck drivers and plasterers came to terms earlier this month.

New Power Source

PORTAGEVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—A $97.9-million, federal-state plan to construct a reservoir and hydro-electric complex on the Genesee River at the southern end of Letchworth State Park has been unveiled by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The tentative project, subject to public hearings and Congressional approval, calls for creation of a 17-mile-long reservoir by building a dam near this Wyoming County hamlet.

Col. R. Wilson Neff, Buffalo District engineer for the corps, announced the plans Saturday and said studies showed that its cost would be outweighed by its benefits in terms of recreation, power generation and pollution control.

The reservoir would allow an increased flow of water into the Genesee River during the summer months to control its pollution and heighten its beauty in metropolitan Rochester, 50 miles north of here.

Neff said plans also called for construction of an underground hydro-electric plant capable of producing 200,000 kilowatts of power daily.

Air Oldtimers Honor Curtiss; Aviation Father

HAMMONDSPOUT, N. Y. (AP)—It was a day for reminiscing when nearly 200 persons, many of them pioneers of flight, gathered in this Finger Lakes village—the hometown of the late "Father of Naval Aviation," Glenn Hammond Curtiss.

Eleven states and thousands of hours of flying experience were represented by members of the OX5 Club who attended the get-together Saturday, the 89th anniversary of Curtiss' birth.

Leaders said they hoped to make it an annual event.

8,500 Members

The OX5 Club, named for an early Curtiss-built engine, is open to those who owned, flew or maintained an aircraft before World War II using that power plant. Leaders said the group has 8,500 members scattered throughout the world, many of them still piloting their own planes. It was founded in 1955 at Latrobe, Pa.

The club's president is Arthur C. Goebel, a retired Army Lieutenant colonel from Los Angeles. In 1927, he won the Dole Air Race from California to Hawaii—an event in which 10 of the 12 competitors perished.

Elmo N. Pickertill, the 81-year-old president of the New York OX5 Wing who was taught to fly by Orville Wright, also was among those at the gathering. In September, 1910, two months after making his first solo flight, he became the first man to send and receive signals from an airplane.

List of Guests

Others attending included Russell Holderman of Rochester, N. Y., a student during World War I at the Navy aviation school founded along Keuka Lake by Curtiss; Earl R. Southwick of Athens, Pa., who soloed in a Curtiss Jenny in 1917; and Leona Parker of Hicksville, N. Y., a mechanic at an early Curtiss factory in Garden City, N. Y.

The Pennsylvania OX5 Wing presented a plaque to the Curtiss Museum, founded here in 1961, in memory of Samuel Bigony of Pottstown, Pa., an early airline pilot and barnstormer killed last year in the crash of a 30-year-old plane.

Curtiss, who began designing engines for dirigibles at the turn of the century, died in a Buffalo hospital in 1930 while recuperating from an appendectomy. He was born in this wingery center May 20, 1878 and is buried here.

SALVATION ARMY WEEK

"Compassion in Action" is the theme of this year's observance of National Salvation Army Week, May 21 through May 28.

We all feel compassion for our needy neighbors. But over the years, The Salvation Army has shown us how to energize that feeling into a program of positive action on many fronts. Through its total ministry, the Salvation Army encourages spiritual growth and wholesome family life.

The skid row shelters maintained by the Salvation Army are famous. Yet how many of us—except the needy—are aware of all the diverse services offered by the Army?

Those who are familiar with the work of the Salvation Army in this area know of the great benefits they bring to people they serve the year round. Its multifaceted social welfare program aims at helping and integrating the whole man, his spiritual, physical, mental and social being. The local organization is one of the participating agencies in the Ulster County Community Chest.

Across the nation, The Salvation Army operates summer camps for children, young people participating in Salvation Army year-round programs, and elderly men and women with marginal incomes.

The Salvation Army officers act as trusted liaison between hundreds of prison inmates and their families. And the Army's employment bureaus work discreetly to find jobs that will help ex-inmates out of jail permanently.

Thousands of confused, unhappy young girls have received medical care and understanding counsel at Salvation Army homes for unwed mothers.

The Salvation Army even operates Missing Persons Bureaus in all the states of the union and in a number of countries overseas. All the bureaus work cooperatively to diligently track down any and all clues to the whereabouts of missing family members, runaway boys and girls, missing heirs, etc. They have an excellent record of success and have brought happiness to many families who could never have afforded private investigative services on this worldwide scale.

The Salvation Army has many more essential—yet little known—services, and more such programs are planned for the future.

That future depends upon the continued support of generous and compassionate Americans. What better time than during National Salvation Army Week to reaffirm our support and encouragement of this unique organization's important work.

JUVENILE COURT PROTECTION

Since the first juvenile court was established in Chicago in 1899, juvenile court trials were regarded essentially as civil in nature and the children's rights were supposedly adequately protected by the judges acting as parens patriae or substitute parents.

In a landmark case, the Supreme Court had decided that juvenile courts must grant children the protection of the procedures required under the Bill of Rights. The result will be a radical change in most of the nation's 3,000 juvenile courts. Only California, the District of Columbia, Minnesota and New York now provide free counsel, one of the findings in the new decision. With 600,000 juvenile cases in the country and rising, this will put a great burden on the legal profession.

Justice Abe Fortas wrote the opinion, which in effect held that the juvenile judges had not sufficiently protected the juveniles in their courts and substituted the Bill of Rights for their solicitation. Only Justice Potter Stewart was opposed. He conceded that the record of juvenile courts did not live up to their ideals, but that the solution offered by the majority was "a long step backwards into the nineteenth century" because it abolished the flexibility and informality of juvenile courts and caused children once more to be treated as adults in court.

There is no question that juvenile courts have failed to cope with juvenile criminality. Two-thirds of 16 and 17-year-olds before juvenile courts are repeaters. Whether treating them as adults will help them remains to be seen. The problem runs deeper than that, to be handled by education and job training, with court action only when all else fails.

Complaints of excessive and unjust fines by the town of Ludowici in southeast Georgia has moved Gov. Lester G. Maddox to threaten to take away the power of arrest from local officials. The speed trap is no goodwill maker for the state.

All holidays except Christmas and New Year's would be observed on Mondays in Michigan, if the nearly 3 to 1 vote of the state House of Representatives is endorsed by the Senate and approved by the Governor. Like daylight saving, it will be confusing until the rest of the country joins in.

"So Who Do You Know?"

Henry J. Taylor Says

Wrecker Wallace Holds Strategic Key

If the Democrats and Republicans think they can tuck former Alabama Gov. George W. Wallace under the bed, or forget about him in 1968, they ought to have their heads examined. Anyone who saw him at his recent Richmond, Va., performance could tell both parties they're in for a terrible jolt.

Obviously, the Democrats are in trouble—all over the country. President Johnson stands like a man promising to stop a landslide with a shovel. The people themselves are paying for all the things he says he is giving them, and they are catching on to it.

Specifically, the four pre-dominant drags on the Democrats are the farm economy in the farm states, the cost of living (inflation) in the industrial states, the Vietnam impasse, and civil rights as really being the issue of law and order.

Bobby Kennedy, in his endless game of "High Noon" with LBJ, is shattering his party's solidarity and it is doubtful that he is even helping himself. In his opportunism and his alliances with interwoven interests, so complex and so cutthroat, there is much evidence that Bobby is outsmarting himself.

The Republicans are in the catbird seat—except for Wallace.

It is utterly preposterous today to call the Republicans a minority party.

We have 50 states, the aggregate vote of Republican Senatorial candidates last November exceeded the Democratic vote in 33 states. Exclusive of Arkansas, where able veteran Democrat John L. McClellan was unopposed for re-election, the final national figures were 13,654,734 Republican votes as against 12,971,157 Democratic.

LBJ won California in 1964 by 1,300,000 votes. Republican Sen. George Murphy subsequently won by 200,000 and, still later, Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan by 1,000,000. In our most populous state, the switch since LBJ's landslide represented 2,300,000.

In the 35 gubernatorial elections (very close to local sentiment) the Republican votes totaled 21,165,918; Democratic, 18,696,213; minor parties and write-in, 1,584,394.

In farm-belt Iowa, for example, Democrat Harold Hughes remained Governor, but the Republicans won four seats in Congress, kept a Senate seat, gained four in the state Senate and swept 66 Democrats out of their seats in the statehouse.

This change was clearly continued, and even accelerated, since November. Note the state of Pennsylvania's official report on April 30. For the first time in seven years there are more registered Republicans in Pennsylvania than Democrats. Six months earlier, at the time of the November election, the Democrats led in registration by 80,000.

Now for the question of Democrat George Wallace, who, in Richmond, all but officially confirmed the suspicion that he's going to chastise both parties through a third-party ticket.

On his last go-around he walked into the 1964 Wisconsin primary for a few days, and came out with an astounding 260,000 votes. No political commentator in the country could believe it. Wallace exploded a similar surprise in Indiana. He was expected to get about 15 per cent of the primary vote in Maryland. He got 45 per cent. These were not votes for Wallace—they were protest votes by ordinary folks itching to voice their variety of protests in general.

Wallace is a poor exponent of the protest vote, but he can polarize the protest vote and that factor can be decisive.

People vote against, not for, in most elections, although candidates' vanity seldom permits them to believe this. "Throw the rascals out" is the thing that works if anything is to work against the power of the "ins."

Many a pig in the poke has been bought on this basis and although Wallace of course, will not be bought, he can take a lethal poke at the Republican underpinnings.

With his splinter strength in exactly the Southern states which Mr. Johnson must have to win, Wallace could even throw the election into the House of Representatives.

In this writer's opinion the man who holds the strategic key to 1968 is not President Johnson and certainly not Bobby Kennedy. The man is George Wallace. And unless the Republican Presidential hopefuls forthrightly and energetically polarize the protest vote in their different ways—but surely do it—wrecker Wallace can whirl their careers to a full stop.

Nixon Headquarters Has Small Town Effect

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon's only political base today is in local party organizations commonly known to the trade as the boondocks, and as national communications do not go there, he is bringing their distinctive culture here.

Three evenings of free refreshments and entertainment will signal the opening of national Nixon headquarters at 1726 Pennsylvania Avenue, a block from the White House. This close proximity is emphasized in several ways by the invitations which, naturally, are embellished with red, white and blue touches plus occasional flashes of elephant gray.

Guests are bid to a "neighborhood improvement project," and attendance will signify only approval of a "vital civic effort." Host will be Chairman Gaylord B. Parkinson of the Nixon for President Committee. Parkinson is the former California Republican state chairman whose emphasis on party unity helped to put Ronald Reagan in the statehouse.

How long the free refreshments will hold out is not known, but presumably Parkinson hopes to produce an attraction for the tourists who swarm over from the near neighbor at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, undeterred by snow or rain or heat or cold.

Nixon also needed a center to attract attention to his support. His Wall Street law offices are both impressive and commodious, but they are expected to produce dollar revenue; in fact, they must, as travel is so expensive these days.

Nor is Wall Street quite the locale for political pilgrimages even in the Affluent Society. Perhaps a certain effort at disassociation from it is also implicit in the deliberately small-town effect of the new Nixon headquarters.

The former Vice-President's courting of Washington exposure, which can be cruel, comes as something of a surprise to many Republicans.

They knew he had not ceased to cultivate his former associates and would be available at the convention. But knowing also that he is still a controversial figure, they had not expected him on the firing line so soon and so openly.

To some, it means that he is already satisfied that Gov. George Romney of Michigan is faltering. It is a view shared by other observers, including Romney supporters. It is also being recalled that managers of Nixon's Presidential campaign in 1960 complained that he had such supreme confidence in his own political judgment, he never took advice on any subject.

Polls have suggested that Nixon will have important delegate strength at the convention. Whether it will cling to him when so many of the 25 Republican Governors intend to be favorite sons is doubtful. Governors may no longer be the seed bed of the Presidency, with foreign affairs so vital, but they have powerful leverage in the delegations.

Months ago Nixon said that if the war were still in progress next year, his would be the peace party. He has not yet moved in that direction himself.

Strange Contrasts Are Noted In Life of U.S. Youth Today

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—There are some strange contrasts in the life of American youth today. This writer saw at Constitution Hall here on Wednesday night a "demonstration" which was utterly unlike any that has made the headlines in recent months.

More than 3,500 persons listened to two hours of singing by a cast of 150 young people, most of them between the age of 18 and 20. In the audience were 1,000 young men in uniform from the fifteen candidate regiment at nearby Fort Belvoir, and they cheered heartily, along with the rest of the listeners. It was an inspirational evening—the emphasis being on what a spiritual influence can do in America and elsewhere.

This same kind of program—entitled "Up With People!"—has been given in the last 18 months to more than 2.2 million Americans, on 450 college campuses and schools, at the four service academies, and on 89 military bases in the United States and Canada. There are three full-time traveling casts of 150 each, and 160 regional casts involving nearly 15,000 youths across the country.

The whole project was developed at a gathering of 7,000 students from the United States and 52 other nations who met at the moral rearmament conference center at Mackinac Island in Michigan in the summer of 1965. The purpose was to launch "a new trend for the youth of the world."

Several foreign governments have sponsored tours by American casts in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America, and native "sing-out" groups have been formed by youth of other countries, including Germany, Japan, Venezuela and Korea. "Harmabee Africa" has a 140-member cast representing 14 African nations. All these turn out other countries, and this summer will hold a world-wide sing-out festival in the United States.

One American cast recently returned from a four-week tour of Panama as guests of the government. Receiving them at the palace before they left, the President of Panama, Marcos A. Robles, told the performers:

"The response that you have had right through the country is a demonstration of the gratitude and thanks which the whole people of Panama feel towards what you have brought. What you have done has contributed a great deal to the creation of a new understanding between two great nations, which must always march together in their aims towards producing order and progress for the whole of humanity."

At the conclusion of the performance at Constitution Hall, William Storey, a Negro leader from a college in California, declared that "The issue that is facing university America is not white power versus black power, but it is whether our generation have the guts to give heart power to a hungry and confused world."

In a recent article in "The Reader's Digest," Mr. Storey is mentioned as having once been a member of one of the toughest youth gangs on Chicago's west side before joining "Sing-Out," and is quoted as having said:

"The kids in 'Sing-Out' seem to have an answer to hate and violence. I decided to do something to help spread that answer."

The "Sing-Outs" within the United States have attracted huge crowds. The cast contains boys and girls of every race, every color, every creed and every class. Before each evening's program, they meet in prayer as they seek divine guidance in their work. The songs are inspirational, particularly when the chorus sings out "Freedom Isn't Free."

The purpose of the whole program is to present the image of a "disciplined, responsible, mature young American." The boys and girls are talented and well directed. The dances are decent and graceful. The boys have the conventional haircuts of yesterday.

The stirring appeal by the young people who have joined this movement is significant. It is an example of what can be done by orderly assembly. It is indeed a contrast to what we have witnessed in many of the impassioned "demonstrations" by youth which have swept the land. (Copyright, 1967, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

DO YOU REMEMBER

Perhaps those who were looking at the Hudson river, on Sunday afternoon, May 14, and suddenly saw the magnificent side-wheeler, the Alexander Hamilton, thought it may be a mirage. It was my good fortune to receive a ticket for this special excursion, which brought the boat to the Newcomb dock at Kingston Point Park, and receive some 2,500 passengers from this area for this trip.

Due to the fact that there is no public service transportation to Kingston Point, and especially on Sunday, everyone had to arrive by car. Lieut. Hanley and his men and others from the excursion committee had charge of the parking. Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan who has been working on the project at the beach for sometime, would have been delighted to see to what good use his landfill was used. The parking area was very convenient for the cars which started to come in before 11:30 and kept coming in until after 2 o'clock. Kingston Point Park also had room for many cars.

The Alexander Hamilton was due to dock at the Newcomb Dock at 1 but it was around 1:20 when she sounded off near the lighthouse coming up the Hudson. The sun came out faintly, but enough to have folks out with their cameras. The enthusiasm with which the families jumped out of their cars, and parked them and raced to the dock reminded me of other times when that is not a natural dock for such a long boat and there are various projections into the water which she must miss. The Dayline Pier would have been so much easier, I think, but of course, the bridge was taken down and never replaced. Perhaps some day, a Bailey Bridge for temporary landing such as this could be arranged.

I had a good vantage point in a pagoda, overlooking Melody Island, where the bandstand stood many years ago, before vandalism destroyed everything. The uprights of this pagoda are still standing where I was, and with some roof shingles and built-in benches it still could be enjoyed during the summer. The river is very quiet, and that was the only steamer, except a commercial tug with one barge that Sunday afternoon coming down the Hudson. The Alexander Hamilton had come in empty, and docked at 1:45 and in a while I heard the people coming on and rushing to get chairs to sit on. The top deck was soon crowded, and one could see people on all decks, in their bright colors, also hear the music. I saw six locomotives in line strung on the other side on their way up the Hudson. Little by little, one could hardly detect the Alexander Hamilton starting to back carefully away from the dock, and back into the center of the Hudson, like a ballet dancer, then facing Kingston Point, it turned down the Hudson, and I understand on a five hour trip to about West Point and return to Kingston. I could hear the loud speaker as someone was being paged and as quietly as she came she disappeared down the Hudson.

Washington News

By RAY OROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Washington (NEA)—A few days ago, as this was being written, 18 "protesters" (sometimes 22) were picketing outside the Pentagon River entrance.

Television cameras were running. These youngsters were being written up on the front pages of newspapers. Their views were receiving wide expression.

At least one commentator talked of their "courage."

In South Vietnam, there are a good many protesters—men protesting against the takeover of one people by another through armed invasion, terrorism and underground subversion.

In the past five months, more than 15,000 officers and men who completed their year's tour in Vietnam volunteered for an additional tour of duty.

Of the 441,000 U. S. troops in Vietnam, 335,000 are there because they volunteered for service or extra service in the U. S. Army, Navy, Air Force or Marines, most knowing they'd likely be sent to Vietnam. Almost every American civilian in South Vietnam volunteered for the Southeast Asian duty.

More than 85 per cent of the Americans killed in Vietnam volunteered for extra service in the armed forces at a time when it was certain they'd likely serve in Vietnam.

These American protesters in Vietnam are laying their lives on the line. We read many battle stories about their bravery. We hear much less about their beliefs or the things they've done for Vietnam when they're not fighting.

Five Ku Klux Klansmen held a rally in the Southeast some time back. It was covered by 41 newspaper, radio and television men. There were said to be 200 reporters at one California KKK rally, attended by only a handful of klansmen.

The other night this reporter attended a meeting of a major political party which nominated a man for the County Board of Supervisors. The work of the man to be elected, and that of the supervisors for the six other districts, will strongly affect the lives of 300,000 people in the next four years. There were 297 people at the meeting. This reporter could find no mention of the event in two of the area's leading newspapers.

A tiny CORE (Committee on Racial Equality) meeting, discussing violent action, drew twice as many reporters as delegates.

A 1,500-delegate national Urban League convention, attended by the employers of 10 million men and women and discussing better ways to train and employ Negroes, drew only a handful of reporters.

Thirty-seven placard-waving demonstrators at the Pentagon last year gained national television and press coverage. Almost unnoticed the same day was the movement of 35 truckloads of clothes and other gifts gathered by Virginia Junior Chamber of Commerce members for distribution in Vietnam.

At a dinner the other evening, a Negro editor who himself favored civil rights for his people, nevertheless protested that the wrong acts and the wrong proposals were publicized because, as he put it, any Negro—just one, representing perhaps only himself—could phone a newspaper, promise a demonstration and be sure of coverage. Constructive groups have a harder time.

Civic groups composed of hundreds of people make important changes in their community. They struggle to be heard.

But if one man burns his draft card and wedges himself in the door of a public building, protesters, reporters and photographers cover his actions in minute detail.

Aren't we losing sight of something?

Editor, The Freeman

The first casualty of the war is truth. Whenever and wherever it occurs, reasonable citizens are obligated to present the unbiased facts so that by standards may be enabled to draw their own conclusions.

I refer specifically to Frank C. Tobin's letter to The Freeman on May 16. The statements in Mr. Tobin's letter are a mixture of distortion and inaccuracy. I will not argue with Mr. Tobin's statement that "The enemy is World Communism" because he and others holding these views genuinely believe in the now discredited "cold war" policy so nefariously planned by the late Winston Churchill and the now ailing former President Truman. We are reaping the consequences of that tragic whirlwind and we can only pray that its final culmination in a war with China does not occur.

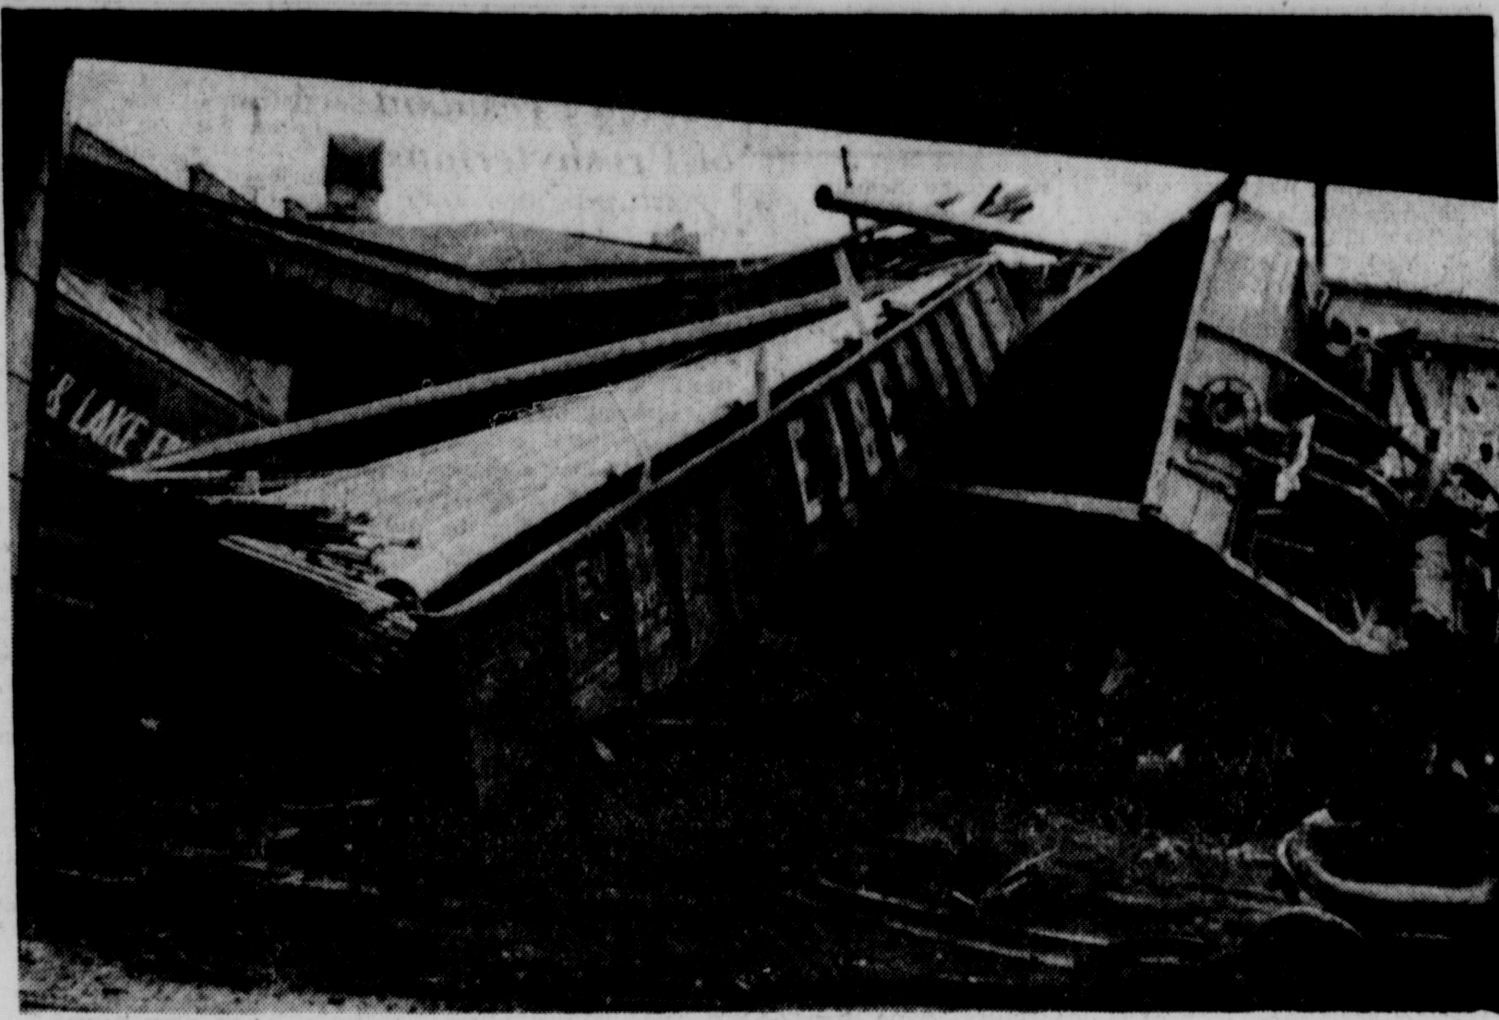

I do, however, insist upon refuting Mr. Tobin's totally unfounded statements about former Ambassador Philip Jessup and the discredited statements about the Institute of Pacific Relations. Both are red herrings that flourished among other hysterical polemics of the late Senator McCarthy. To use discredited material as the basis for distortion of present day policy is not the work of a reasonable man.

It is customary for us to dismiss communist propaganda by terming it lies. Mr. Tobin is using the same tactic but he is more dangerous because a great many Americans do not know or do not remember the McCarthy era and the grave injustices so many decent Americans suffered by slanderous accusations.

I would suggest persons interested in obtaining the facts about the Institute of Pacific Relations that they read "Ordeal by Slander" by Owen Lattimore. Mr. Lattimore, a highly respected and distinguished scholar, was also given his baptism of mudslinging by Senator McCarthy, but Lattimore, like Ambassador Jessup, was totally vindicated. A newspaper cannot investigate all the charges contained in "Letters to the Editor," but it must be cautious not to print any whose content is obviously one-sided and whose statements are betrayals of history.

4 Are Hurt, One From Here In Rhinebeck

Four persons, including a Kingston resident, were injured at 7:40 p. m. Sunday when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Route 308 near River Road, Rhinecliff, and rolled down a 20-foot embankment after sheering off a utility pole. State Trooper Ronald McPhail of Rhinebeck, said the car operated by Donald Arthur, 20, of Rhinecliff, was traveling south on the highway when he lost control. The car hit guard rails, sheered off a pole and rolled down the embankment into a gulley.

Arthur was cited by troopers for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent. The summons is returnable later before Justice of the Peace

George Harrington, Town of Rhinebeck.

Troopers said Arthur sustained contusions of the right hip. Passengers were Everett Dawson, 20, Rhinecliff, who received multiple abrasions of the body; Watt Beckwith, 24, also of Rhinecliff, chest contusions; Rebecca McMillan, 23, of 619 Delaware Avenue, Kingston, fractured right clavicle. They were treated at Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck. June Krusher, 20, of 3 North Front Street, this city, a passenger, escaped injury, troopers said.

Hold Orange Driver After 52 Mishap

Lyall Keene, 39, of Middletown, was arrested Sunday by Ellenville State Police on charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and failure to keep to the right, according to Trooper R. R. Brooks.

The case is scheduled for 7 p. m. today before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel, Town of Wawarsing. Keene sustained slight lacerations of the scalp, which were treated at Ellenville Community Hospital. Keene's car was involved in a mishap on Route 52 about 1½ miles west of Ellenville.

Indecisiveness Describes Military Situation Today

SAIGON (AP) — By moving regular troops. Heavy rocket, artillery and mortar reinforcements have recently poured in and the Reds have begun to nestle SAM sites, for the big Soviet aircraft missiles, right on the northern border of the demilitarized zone.

The arrival of the SAMs that far south caused the U.S. Air Force to ston B52 raids in the zone area at a time when they were needed. The high-altitude Strategic Air Command bombers were too vulnerable to Red missiles like those that once downed a U2 over the Soviet Union.

Startlingly one-sided victories are scored but the Red units reappear, their ranks filled increasingly with replacements. The U.S. Air Force hopefully believes it can alter that seeming stalemate in a short period when the bad weather over North Vietnam clears with the changing of the monsoon season due any day.

It is widely accepted that despite some waning enthusiasm the enemy command still feels it will gain a political-military victory in South Vietnam.

Unrelenting Pressure The U.S. antidote to this has become "unrelenting pressure," coupled with greater emphasis on pacification programs paralleling military campaigns. Pessimists among high U.S. officials see the effort taking a decade. Optimists speak of two to three years, hoping for "the snowball effect to success."

It is generally felt that despite the major campaign shaping up in the Marine-held provinces, the military war is in a moment of indecisiveness. U.S. commanders see their gains thus far as solid but not decisive. They look to the next six months for some better indication of the future.

Within that time the U.S. force level will near 480,000 men, said to be fewer than Gen. William C. Westmoreland wants — but about all he appears sure to get at present. Staff planners in Saigon have many more ideas. They hope to keep the Communist regulars and hard-core units isolated as never before.

But at the moment U.S. officers are less inclined to make sweeping predictions than they were earlier.

"I can muster facts for gloom and doom predictions or I could give you the silver-lining figures," one senior commander remarked. "I think we're winning. I'm sure we're winning. But I know he — the Viet Cong — thinks he's winning too."

Husbands to Get Wife's TV View

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—An evening version of the daytime "Let's Make a Deal" is the perfect choice to convince strictly nighttime viewers that all the giddy things they have heard about these housewives' delights are absolutely, grimly true.

NBC installed the half-hour program in its summer schedule Sunday night and the kindest thing that one can say is that it is not exactly the kind of show with appeal to everyone in the family.

It features outgoing hopefuls of the studio audience dressed in bizarre and homemade costumes, with funny hats and signs, which they propose to trade with the ebullient host, Monty Hall who has pockets full of money, a supply of little jokes and a fondness for dropping phrases like "prenez garde" and "caveat emptor" which he thoughtfully translates.

Some of the lucky contestants traded up articles like a hat with a toy stork on top to $400 in cash; a beach ball to a trip to Paris, and one man wound up with a motor boat. Less fortunate traders ended with such things as a live skunk and a bored donkey. Fortunately, no one picked up "the world's largest rocking horse," which was as big as a house.

Two of the successful women contestants cried a lot — nerves and happiness, one presumes.

Kitchen equipment, his-and-her motorcycles and $1,000 bills abounded on the premier evening show. On the regular daytime program, the loot is more modest although the audience is just as frenzied.

Later Sunday night there was NBC's premier of "The Saint," a straight, uncomplicated action-adventure tale from England that was not, for a change, played tongue in cheek. It had a preposterous plot, but Roger Moore in the lead is handsome and suave, and the series promises to be a pleasant, amusing hour on warm summer nights.

Another English import, "Piccadilly Palace," taking over for "Hollywood Palace" on ABC Saturday night, did not fare so well. It is a series of vaudeville turns, but the comedy was a little hard for an American to follow and full of English slang. The musical numbers came off well.

Most delightful special program of the weekend was NBC's hour-long conversation with W. Averell Harriman, who sat down with three well-prepared reporters in his living room and reminisced about his years as an international trouble shooter for all presidents since Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was relaxed and easy, and his personal reactions to the great figures of the past 30 years showed perception and generosity.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10 EDT, final special of Como's season, with Canadian guest performers honoring the Canadian centennial.

Two-Bit Protest

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—It cost 391 students at Cornell University 25 cents each to make public today the information that they would not serve in the armed forces because the United States is "waging a war of aggression in Vietnam."

The students took out a full-page advertisement in the Cornell Daily Sun, a student-run newspaper, at a total cost of $97.50.

The ad reads: "We, the undersigned, having concluded that our government is waging a war of aggression in Vietnam, declare that we will not serve in the armed forces so long as the United States is engaged in this or any unjust and immoral war."

Visited Reservoir

Twenty-seven students from the fourth grade class of Mrs. Marjorie King, Grant D. Morse School, paid a visit to the Saugerties Reservoir at Blue Mountain one morning last week. There they learned how the water of this small but beautiful reservoir supplies Glasco and Saugerties, including Barclay Heights. The caretaker, Donald Sullivan, explained how the water from three intakes is first filtered and then purified by the addition of chlorine gas. Sullivan also showed the children the actual process whereby the water taken from a tap in the main below the reservoir is tested for the amount of chlorine present.

The trip was in conjunction with a science unit on water.

DAR to Donate Flags and Codes

Saugerties Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their final business meeting in May at the home of Mrs. Charles Abbott. Mrs. Carroll Neiffer, Regent, presided. Devotions were led by Chaplain Mrs. Daniel Lamouree followed by the Pledge of Allegiance and two verses of the National Anthem.

The National Defense annual report and the article "Freedom-A Two Edged Sword" was read by Mrs. Robert Freer. A letter from Miss Helen Vrooman, Saugerties Chapter delegate to the Continental Congress, held in Washington, D. C. in April, was read. Members voted to send a letter of appreciation to Miss Vrooman for her written report on the Continental Congress.

It was decided that the Chapter would not enter a float in the July 4th parade, but would be willing to enter a car with the DAR emblem on the doors representing the Chapter.

It has been learned that the Saugerties Central School System has made a request for 15 American flags. A motion was made and carried that the Saugerties Chapter will take the responsibility for four or five flags and will also give flag codes.

The Year Book Committee was appointed to include Mrs. Freer, Mrs. Lamouree, Mrs. John Lowther, and Mrs. Neiffer. A discussion of next year's programs followed.

Mrs. William Russell read the 76th Continental Congress report prepared by Miss Vrooman. An American Flag Essay contest is being conducted throughout the school system in the fifth and sixth grades. Winners will be honored guests at the final meeting of the Saugerties Chapter on Saturday, June 10.

This will be a picnic meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. William Young. Lighthouse Drive. Winners of the Flag Essay Contest will be presented with the book "Flag of America."

Hostesses for the June meeting will be: Mrs. Young, Mrs. William Brinjer, Mrs. Willett Overbaugh, Mrs. James Slater, Mrs. Louis Francello, and Miss Overbaugh.

The Sound of Music will be the theme of the Spring Concert at the Grant D. Morse School Friday, May 26, 7:30 p. m.

Instrumentally, there will be a clarinet Duet by Angela Checkley and Margaret Beek; violin solo by William Wilhelm, trumpet solo by James Tracy and violin trio by William Pangerc, Heidi Tiedtke and Cathy Shults.

The program will conclude with the choir singing, Edelweiss, Mayday Carol, This Is My Country and Climb Every Mountain.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Arabs' Threats Bared

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Arab workers will blow up Western oil installations in the Middle East and strike against all Western air and sea traffic if war breaks out between the Arabs and Israel, the secretary-general of the Pan-Arab Federation of Labor Trade Unions declared today.

Emergency Meeting
Hastern Ali Mohsen made his threat at an emergency meeting of the Council in Damascus, the Syrian capital, as more Arab forces were moved up to Israel's borders and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant prepared to fly to Cairo in an attempt to ease the Middle East crisis.

The threat to blow up Western oil installations in the Arab world has been made frequently. Syria blew up the Iraqi Petroleum Co.'s pipelines during the Suez war in 1956.

Opening the labor conference, Syrian Chief of State Nureddin el-Atassi said Syria and Egypt are prepared to renew any Israeli aggression and "start the final liberation battle" against the Jewish state.

Atassi said Arab commandos raiding Israel would continue declaring: "There is no power on earth that can stand in our way." Israeli threats to retaliate if the commando raids were not stopped touched off the current crisis and brought thousands of Syrian and Egyptian troops to Israel's borders.

Egypt moved troops to Sharm el Sheikh, overlooking the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba, Israel's only direct access to the Red Sea, and began sending army reserves to staging camps following total mobilization orders.

Israel has said blocking its access to the Red Sea through its southern port city of Eilat would mean a fight.

Lebanon said it was sending troops to Israel's northern border to guard against "any sudden aggression."

In Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said Iraq was sending military units to support the Egyptian military buildup.

Warnings from Israel that it would retaliate unless guerrilla raids supported by Syria were stopped led earlier to mobilization of Syrian troops on Israel's northeast border and Egyptian troops in the Sinai desert on the southwest. Syria moved a detachment of about 20 Soviet-built tanks to the frontier Sunday.

Despite the massive buildup around the Jewish nation and the possibility that some Israeli might touch off a war, no violence was reported along the Israeli borders.

In Jordan, though, the Interior Ministry said a Syrian bomb killed seven Jordanians and three Iraqis when a civilian automobile was being inspected at a crossing point on the Jordan-Syria border. It termed the explosion a "criminal act" by Syria but said Jordan would maintain unity with the other Arab states in the face of danger from Israel.

Cairo radio reported today that Egypt had called up its reserves. The Israeli government already had ordered partial mobilization, and Syria has moved 40,000 troops up to her border with Israel.

Egypt said its troop mobilization was in accordance with its mutual defense pact with Syria. But Israeli officials believed Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser was trying to bolster both a faltering government in Syria and his own claims to leadership among the Arab nations.

Spokesmen for both Israel and the Arab side have said that if war comes, they are ready.

U Thant called the crisis the most menacing in the area since the 1956 Israeli-Arab war. He arrives in Cairo Tuesday and plans five days of talks with Nasser and other officials.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, lively discussion was expected on Thant's quick decision to withdraw the 3,400-man U.N. Emergency Force, which had been stationed in Egypt along the Israeli border and at Sharm el Sheikh.

Some Western delegates said privately that Thant should have stalled for time after Egypt asked him to remove the force. The secretary-general took the position that the troops were there with Egypt's consent, and when that was withdrawn they had to get out.

Hill Town Pastor Named President of Presbyterians

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The hill folk of the little Tennessee mountain crossroads of Big Lick gave a covered-dish church supper for their preacher, Gene Smathers, and sent him off to run for his denomination's highest national office — joshing him about it.

He didn't have a chance, most people figured, against the big-city influence. But he won. Why?

Flabbergasted
"It beats me," he says. "I'm still flabbergasted."

It also remained a general topic of fascinated speculation today at the governing General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., at which the tall, gangling Rev. Eugene Smathers, with his plain folksy ways, has taken over the presiding gavel.

"He corralled a lot of anti-establishment feeling," goes the common explanation. And another: "He elicited the sympathy for the little man. A lot of the commissioners here come from small situations, and they identify with the underdog."

But there were other factors involved, too, and not alone the appealing, homespun character of the man from the back-country hills.

"Some fellows worked like the dickens for me," Dr. Smathers said, noting that material supporting him had been mailed to all 833 voting church representatives before the assembly.

Personally, however, he was practically unknown in the church at large, and only belatedly decided to run.

Beat Tough Rival
Yet he won the election last week over a widely prominent and long-time denominational leader, the Rev. Dr. William H. Hudnut, who had held pastorate in Cincinnati, Springfield, Ill., Rochester, N.Y., served on top denominational agencies, and recently led a successful national church fund drive.

"We just innocently upset the applecart," Dr. Smathers said. "I'm sure it must have hurt him, and that's what hurts me more than anything."

The son of a Kentucky tenant farmer, the Tennesseean has spent his entire ministry at the remote, tiny spot of Big Lick, named for a rock salt lick once used by deer, several miles from the nearest incorporated town of Crossville.

His Calvary Presbyterian church, which the people built after he came there 35 years ago, has only about 75 members, most of the farm families around. He concentrated his work among them — never holding church office outside his own region.

Summer Should Be Fun; Often Marked by Death

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—In this coming season of weddings, ball games, vacations and sunny idylls, the statisticians of the life insurance companies will be counting tragedies. To them, summer is often the season of the accidental death.

This disturbing correlation of joy and tragedy, of temperature and accident, is so pronounced that it encompasses most age groups, most areas of the nation and hundreds of activities. It ruins vacations, it absorbs insurance people.

27,000 Will Die

If their past statistics and present estimates hold up, more than 27,000 persons will die in accidents during the summer months of June, July and August. Another 15 million will be hurt.

This means, the statisticians say, that of every 100 males 10 will be hurt, and 6 of every 100 females will be injured also. These injuries will either require medical attention or limit the person's activity for at least a day.

The summer total of deaths by automobile—12,000—drowning—2,800 and boating—560 is familiar to many people. But the nature of accidental deaths is taking some new twists.

Of the more than 5,000 drownings in 1965, for instance, 484 occurred in swimming pools. Of these, 230 occurred at private homes, 52 in apartment houses and 53 in motels and hotels.

The type of accidents is being added to also. Mountain climbing, scuba diving, sport parachuting, auto racing and motorcycling all seem to reach accident peaks in the summer.

Divers Hit

Jules Quint, a research associate at Metropolitan Life, quotes statistics indicating that, if past averages are maintained, more than 80 civilians will drown in underwater diving accidents this year. The peak will be in July, when 16 divers will fail to surface.

Sport parachuting will have a roughly similar curve. Between 1961 and 1965 this sport, the statisticians found, caused a total of 15 deaths, with all but 18 of them occurring from April to November.

Motorcycling figures are less complete than statistics for some other activities, but a study of motorcycle accidents in New York State shows the great majority from May through September.

From mountains of such figures, the statisticians can come to some conclusions, the most obvious being that warm weather, long days and vacations promote activity; activity produces accidents; accidents often must be paid for by insurance companies.

Don't Heed Warnings

Despite these relationships, many Americans this summer will be disturbed at insurance company and safety group warnings. The most common gripe will be: "What good are the warnings?"

The explanation isn't easy, and some critics insist that the emphasis on statistics may be more nuisance than good to the public. One safety group, for instance, issued and quickly recalled because of its blatant negativism, a calendar that pictured a different accident photo for each month.

Critics who complain about using accident statistics to plug safety also point to a fairly steady relation—with exceptions—of accidents to population. The thing that changes, it seems, is the variety.

MRS. OTTI BREWER

MSH Attendant
66 Outstanding
Psychiatric Aide

A Middletown State Hospital staff attendant, Mrs. Otti Brewer, has been chosen as the hospital's outstanding psychiatric aide for 1966. Mrs. Brewer's attitudes, abilities, and job performance are representative of the collective advancements made by the entire aide group toward the better ward care and well-being of their patients during the past year.

The award, sponsored by the National Association for Mental Health, will be presented to Mrs. Brewer by the Orange County Mental Health Association at its ninth annual meeting Wednesday, May 17, at First Presbyterian Church Hall in Goshen. The award consists of a distinctive gold pin and is accompanied by the N.A.M.H. Certificate of Achievement.

The purpose of the Psychiatric Aide Award is to encourage higher standards of ward treatment for the mentally ill and handicapped in state institutions, to focus public attention on the important role of psychiatric aides in providing direct services to patients, and to gain adequate recognition and acceptance for Psychiatric Aides engaged in ward care.

Mrs. Brewer also worked as a recreation instructor at MSH. Her activities in the recreation department covered a wide segment of the hospital population, ranging in age from the very young to the very old. From her successful work there, Mrs. Brewer transferred to ward service in intensive therapy.

In 1964 she successfully passed the examination for staff attendant, and in October of that year was promoted to that title.

Mrs. Brewer was born in Germany where she met and married an American soldier. She is presently living in Middletown with her son, Jurgen Kurt Brewer. She is active in the hospital's Civil Service Employees Association and in the local Humane Society.

Paper Shuts Down

FAIR HAVEN, Vt. (AP)—Canfield Printing Co., publisher of the Vermont Era, announced that the 173-year-old weekly newspaper would not resume publication after a fire destroyed its plant.

Normal in Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Tourists are allowed to visit the base of the Prospect Point observation tower near the American Falls for the first time since a rockslide May 11 forced the closing of the area.

Work crews spent much of last week clearing up an estimated 100 tons of rock and debris that spilled into the Niagara River Gorge, Arthur B. Williams, manager of the Niagara Frontier State Park Commission, said Saturday.

A survey is now under way to determine what remedial work will be needed at the rockslide area, he added.

Crews Clearing Wreckage After 40 Cars Derail

SCOTTSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Work crews began clearing wreckage today caused by the derailment of 40 of the 87 cars of a Baltimore & Ohio freight train in this village 15 miles south of Rochester.

No one was reported injured Sunday when the cars, most loaded with coal, left the rails, tearing up several hundred feet of track in the process.

Railroad officials said they would not be able to determine the cause until the wreckage was cleared, hopefully later in the day.

Meanwhile, traffic was halted on the single B & O line between Salamanca and Rochester. The starting point and destination of the derailed train. "Until the track is open, we can't move a thing," a railroad official said.

Kerhonkson
Federated Notes

KERHONKSON — Sacrament of baptism was administered to David Francis Mabie, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. David Wayne Mabie at Mother's Day services in Kerhonkson Federated Church.

Twenty of the 87 cars were empty, he said. The others carried a cargo that included coal, cereal, lumber, chemicals and white sand. Some of the derailed cars cracked open, spilling goods over the roadbed and sending up clouds of coal dust. One car crashed through a wooden fence and ground to a halt 60 feet from the home of Richard Hannigan.

No estimate of the damage was given by B & O officials.

Tough Sentence

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Municipal Court Judge John B. Lawrence sentenced two 18-year-old girls convicted of shoplifting to a fine, one day in jail, two years probation and a crash diet. A 165-pound girl must lose 10 pounds in six months or they face jail for 29 more days.

The judge said, "I thought that making them do without sweets awhile would sting, and that everytime they went without a malted they would remember they are being punished."

Mishaps Claim 20 Lives During Weekend

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The weekend's fairly comfortable temperatures and gusty winds were reflected in the accident death toll in New York State as 20 persons lost their lives in various mishaps.

Deaths by drowning, a sure harbinger of warmer weather, rose to five, including three persons who were drowned when boats capsized or were swamped on wind-swept bodies of water. In addition, one other man was believed drowned when he fell from a boat while working on a motor.

Traffic accidents claimed 12 lives.

The accidental death count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Backs Protestors

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Sol Linowitz, the U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States, says protests on campuses are just a first step toward eventual solutions to problems.

The former business executive from Rochester told graduates of Ithaca College Saturday that "true involvement in an issue calls for far more than carrying a banner or joining a march."

Linowitz, who was chairman of the board of the Xerox Corp. before accepting government service, asserted that the "right of dissent and protest is now indispensable and inseparable from our well being."

But, he told the 493 students receiving degrees, "a protest is not the same as a solution" and he urged the graduates to help as individuals in solving the problems faced by the nation today.

The college conferred an honorary Doctor of Laws degree on Linowitz.

Rochester — James Savers II, 23, of Albion, of injuries suffered in a two-car crash in suburban Chili.

See Travia Keeping Convention Power

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic president of the Constitutional Convention appeared ready to rule today on a Republican request for time in which to submit proposals to change the state's basic law.

Convention President Anthony J. Travia has been criticized in GOP quarters for keeping the convention under too tight a rein.

Some Republicans are pressing for liberalization of the convention rules, including an extension of the June 1 deadline for filing of propositions and resolutions by individual delegates.

Convention sources said Travia probably would decide today whether to allow more time for individual action. He has rejected, however, assertions that the convention rules give him too much power. He has noted that the rules were adopted unanimously.

As the delegates gathered for today's session, the focus was on a disputed delegate's seat from The Bronx.

The Court of Appeals ruled last week that an election race between Democrat Alfred E. Santangelo, who has been seated as a delegate, and Conservative - Republican Charles E. Rice resulted in a tie.

And Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo has declared that a special election will have to be held to settle the matter.

But Santangelo contends he has a right to retain his seat and promised to appeal to the convention to support his view. Normally, when a vacancy occurs in a delegate's seat, the two other district delegates may fill the vacancy by picking someone to serve.

In this case, however, Lomenzo said last week, this does not apply because Santangelo was never elected.

A tie vote, in his view, means there has been a "failure to elect."

Since both of the other delegates in the district are Republicans, they could be expected to choose a Republican to fill the vacancy. Indications are that their choice would be Rice.

Travia was looking for the convention Judiciary Committee to recommend "appropriate action."

The convention was expected to adjourn until next week after today's session with individual committees continuing to gather information at public hearings set for this week in Albany and elsewhere in the state.

Norman Accepts Endorsement of Conservatives

Orvil E. Norman, Republican candidate for county legislator from District 2, has filed his acceptance of the Conservative Party nomination for this position.

District 2 is comprised of the Marbletown and Ulster and will have 5 Representatives at-large under the new reapportionment plan.

Norman states the reason he asked for and accepted the Conservative Party nomination is that he believes their basic political beliefs are mainly what the Republican Party at one time followed. He further stated that Abraham Lincoln was probably one of the first Conservative Republicans as well as one of the greatest.

Norman said he believes in and adheres to the famous Lincoln quotation which states that "Good government, of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from this earth."

The famous quotation, "The pen is mightier than the sword," is from Edward Bulwer-Lytton's play, "Richelieu."

Claims Suit Total Was for $170,000

Clarence Slater, who along with his wife Anna and daughter Joyce, was successful in a $60,000 settlement against the Town of Rochester, told The Freeman Monday morning that his original claim was for $170,000, not $90,000 as previously reported.

Slater said his daughter sued for $100,000 and received $50,000 in Supreme Court Wednesday. Mrs. Slater sued for $50,000, according to Slater, and was granted $7,000. Slater sued for $20,000, he said and received $3,000.

The suit arose from an alleged faulty plank on the Mill-kill Bridge over the Stonyhill Creek at Accord which, it was charged, caused a vehicle Slater was driving to be involved in an accident, injuring the three members of the family.

Join Dean Martin Golf Club, Cost Is Only $25,000

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If you like to play golf, are young and vigorous and happen to have $25,000 handy, you might be able to join the Dean Martin

Countrv Club.

Then again, you might not.

There are only 600 memberships available, and you also have to come equipped with good character. That is also going to be the criterion at the Dean Martin

C.C.

Soon To Be 50

Having a golf-and-tennis club named after him is the latest development in the amazing

saga of Martin, born Dino Cro-cetti 50 years ago June 17, son of a Steutenville, Ohio, barber.

He talked about it at the Bel Air

Hotel as he sipped martinis and watched old movies on television between location shots for his latest film, "The Ambushers."

"Well, this here club is going to be the greatest," he exclaimed.

"No, I'm not putting any money into it; just lending my name. The money is coming from some very good sources which I can't divulge at this time. Later I will.

"The setup is this: We're selling 600 memberships at $25,000 apiece. That's $15 million, which is what it will take to build the course. We'll also have 10 tennis courts, and those memberships will go for $5,000...

"What we're looking for is young people on the go. Not just actors, but lawyers, doctors, people from every walk of life.

They don't have to be billionaires, either. We're working it out with my adviser, Al Hart of City National Bank, where a fellow can pay $5,000 down and the rest over a period of years.

Interracial Club

Martin emphasized that membership will be open to those of every race, creed and derivation. "That was one thing I insisted on," he said. "Anybody can join—white, Negro, Catholic, Jew, Italian." It has long ranked Martin and other stars that actors have been barred from two or three exclusive Los Angeles golf clubs.

The Dean Martin course is already being graded in the

The actor said it would be finished in 1969—"and I just got word that the Los Angeles Open will be held at our club that year." The course has been designed by the famed golf planner Robert Trent Jones, with suggestions by Martin.

Nix Bond Issue; Students Forced Into Tent City

By ROBERT COOKE

CALIPATRIA, Calif. (AP) — Green fields give way to ramshackle stores and dusty brick buildings as you pull into Calipatria.

Bumpy streets, lined here and there by small palms that yield precious little shade, lead to tiny suburbs. The 1 p. m. temperature stands at 85, and promises to go higher.

Just west of town, cooling brown under the desert sun, is the city airport. Flimsy-looking biplanes sit idle between crop-dusting chores.

Across the street, sitting dull green on a plot amid vivid green fields is the Big Calipatria High School building, empty, useless. And there, too, are the tents.

Here in the Imperial Valley, where blazing sun and Colorado River water have converted sage and sand into a vast, profitable vegetable garden, the high school population of Calipatria is getting its education in tents.

"The kids have been real good about it," said Supt. James Stevens. "and the teachers have taken it pretty well too."

And the students? "It's okay. You get used to it. We're not liking it, but we're not hating it," said Kathy Layaye, a junior.

"We're not looking forward to summer," Stevens said. "The daytime temperature goes up to 110 degrees in June."

27 Votes Short

Last Feb. 14, a bond issue to finance a new school was defeated by the voters, falling 27 votes short of the two-thirds majority required for approval.

District trustees, advised that the old two-story building was unsafe and warned that they could be held personally liable, ordered the school evacuated.

On Feb. 20, the high school's 320 pupils moved into the drab, dusty tent city.

A new bond election is scheduled for June 6. The district is seeking $1,297,000.

Stevens said abandonment of the old buildings was recommended after two firms "found that the old high school building was dangerous, that it might collapse in our next earthquake."

Hong Kong Rioters Reach Fever Pitch

By FORREST EDWARDS
HONG KONG (AP) — Pro-Communist Chinese clashed bloodily with police today in the 11th day of rioting and anti-British demonstrations in Hong Kong.

Police used riot sticks to drive back one crowd and fired volleys of tear gas to break up another. One group hurled acid from rooftops at police trying to restore control in the main business and financial district.

A dozen other Chinese groups, ranging from gangs of 100 to mobs of 1,000, roved both Hong Kong Island, the British colony's business and government center, and industrial Kowloon, on the mainland across the harbor channel.

The renewal of violence shattered government hopes that the colony's Communists might be easing their pressure. Such hopes had risen because most of the mobs Sunday avoided clashes with the police, and there were no serious injuries on either side.

At least 20 demonstrators, about half of them women, were injured today when they charged a police line guarding Government House. They were driven back by baton-swinging riot police.

In Kowloon, a greatly outnumbered police patrol fired volleys of tear gas to break up a mob of nearly 1,000 bearing down on it.

Some 13,000 Macao Chinese demonstrated in front of the British Consulate there Sunday.

The demands were markedly similar to those to which the Portuguese government of neighboring Macao capitulated earlier this year. But the British government gave no indication of bowing to the Chinese pressure.

Financial and Commercial

By ED MORSE
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved irregularly lower early Monday despite continued strength in silver and other mining issues. Trading was active.

Strength in silver followed another advance in silver futures in the commodity market as a result of the U.S. Treasury's steps last week taken to halt the run on its remaining stock of silver.

Sunshine Mining and Homestake — the latter a gold miner showing sympathetic strength — rose a point or so. Active fractional gainers included Calhoun Mining, United Park City Mines and Bunker Hill.

Elsewhere in the list, General Electric and Zenith dropped a couple of points. Varian Associates lost 1.

Motors were fractional losers despite continuing year-to-year gains in new-car sales. Brokers saw the over-all market as still undergoing a consolidation process.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a further loss below the heralded support level of 875.

On Friday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 6 to 324.7.

Greek Military Vows Democracy Within 6 Months

ATHENS (AP) — Greece entered its second month under a dictatorship Sunday with a new crown prince and a royal promise that a new constitution would be written by the end of November.

In his first speech to the nation since the military coup April 21, King Constantine announced in a broadcast Sunday night that the regime had assured him of a six-month deadline for drawing up a new constitution.

Constantine said after the draft is studied, the constitution will be submitted to the nation of approval in a referendum. He did not indicate when the referendum might be held or how democratic the constitution would be.

The king also made the formal announcement of the birth of his first son. The prince, named Paul after Constantine's late father, was born to Queen Anne-Marie at the suburban Tatoi palace Saturday night.

The couple also have a daughter, Princess Alexia, who was born July 10, 1965.

In assuring the 8.5 million Greek people that they would produce a draft constitution within six months, the military junta appeared to be seeking to appease public opinion at home and abroad.

The regime has shown signs of feeling the heavy international pressure — particularly from the United States — for a quick clarification of its aims. But many wondered whether the regime would permit a return to democratic government.

Leaders of the coup have indicated they might consider it necessary to stay in power for years. If they intend to do so, any constitution would have little real meaning.

The government plans a 20-member committee of experts to draw up the constitution. The king said it would meet by the end of May "and within six months will hand over the draft for the new constitution to the government which, after studying the results will put it before the people for a vote."

The 26-year-old king, who has been little more than a figurehead by the coup, appeared to appeal to the people for the future of the monarchy. He called on all Greeks to help him and the queen prepare the crown prince for a life of service to the nation in the spirit of Greece's history.

"My son," he said, "will learn to place the people's happiness above his own and remember with pride the glorious history of the nation and look forward to the future with fortitude and Christian hope."

The United States has the highest crime rate of any country in modern society, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Specialist Paul Benkert of Saugerties was killed Jan. 7 of this year. The other 1967 casualty was Pfc. Robert L. Johnson of Grand Street Highland March 6.

One Delegate's Viewpoint

A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION REPORT

by

S. James Matthews

As reported in an earlier column, I have been appointed to the Constitutional Convention's Committee on the Legislature. This is one of the 14 standing groups at the convention.

Last week, in preparation for the real work which lies ahead, our committee was broken down into four sub-committees. Each unit has six Democrats who are, as you know, in the majority at the Convention, and five Republicans. Each delegate on the committee has two assignments.

I consider it my extreme good fortune to have been appointed to the group which will concern itself with the number, apportionment, election and tenure of the legislature and congressional districting. If any item before the delegates is to become controversial, it is that of apportionment.

Items such as the Blaine Amendment prohibiting aid to denominational schools has stimulated great interest, but the battle lines are drawn on considerations other than political. No so with apportionment, for the party control of the legislature is at stake.

In 1894 upstate delegates to a Constitutional Convention being held at that time, were successful in writing into our state charter a formula which guaranteed to those areas beyond the City of New York domination of the legislature. This prevalence of representatives north of the Bronx continued until the historic "one man-one vote" decision of the United States Supreme Court a couple of years ago.

Since that time the makeup of our state legislative bodies has shown a drastic change with domination shifting to the metropolitan areas. The political parties in the majority changed and then returned to a midway point where the Republicans prevail in the Senate, while the Assembly is in the hands of Democrats.

The subcommittee responsible for the formula on which our legislature will be districted for probably until the turn of the new century cannot ignore the legitimate political desires of the four parties in New York. Neither can it fail to reflect both the historical precedent favoring rural areas and the new wave of decisions giving major cities a greater voice in the affairs of the states of the Union.

To the uninitiated the task might sound quite simple; determine the number of senators and assemblymen, require that the population in each district be as nearly equal as practicable that the area be compact in order to avoid gerrymandering.

This sounds very easy. However, within the formula are factors which favor one political party over the other. For instance, the fewer the number of senators and assemblymen, the better the Republicans' chances are to elect a majority in each house.

The other side of the coin reveals another dilemma. Each county before the "one man-one vote" decision was entitled to an assemblyman. There are voices in the small upstate counties that desire legislative bodies with sufficient members to lower the population ratio necessary to be entitled to a seat to a point where their county again can be assured of representation in Albany.

There has been talk in other areas of a long, hot summer. It appears our sub-committee will be experiencing much of the same in Albany, but the smell of the forthcoming battle is heady aroma, indeed. I'm exhilarated by the challenge!

Explosion, Fire Under Probe at Buffalo Plant

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Investigators sought the cause today of an explosion and fire that rocked the dusthouse of a feed-mill here, forcing 20 employees to flee and causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

The blast Sunday blew holes in the asbestos walls and shattered windows of the structure, which was on the roof of the Allied Mills Inc. plant. The resulting fire raced down a conveyor system and ignited two bins of grain.

Firemen brought the flames under control within 30 minutes. No one was injured.

Dust is stored in the structure after being drawn off from the feedmill operation and later is mixed with the feed. Firemen said the dust was highly flammable and that a spark could cause an explosion.

An Allied official estimated damage of $50,000 to the conveyor system and the dusthouse and a like amount to feed components.

The plant produces animal and poultry feeds. It is at 11 Bolton Place.

THE HURLY-BURLY STOCK MARKET

Economic history is being made every day. During the first four months of 1967 the total volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange (the world's greatest market) was 495,000,000 shares.

During the same period in 1967, the total volume was 858,000,000 shares. Thus, the volume of trading increased 73 per cent. A book could be written covering the social and economic significance of this vast increase.

Speculation is at its very center and the deterioration of the buying power of the dollar (inflation) is the main force behind all of this.

It represents an unhealthy force in the national economy. It pervades segments of our society where—thrift, saving and sound investment should dwell. Its dangers should be clearly enunciated by the officers of every commercial bank, savings institution and building loan association. They are in the best spots to warn those who are unwisely speculating.

Three employees—a porter, a handyman and an elevator starter—in the big office building where I am quartered in New York City are taking risks in the stock market that they can't afford. Almost every day they ask me a "tip" on the stock market.

I would v... a guess that average trading volume of around 10,000,000 shares daily on the New York Stock Exchange is 50 per cent uninformed and unwise risk-taking by persons like the porter, the handyman and the elevator starter.

Over against this situation is another of great significance. Investors who are speculating unwisely are ignoring sound investment opportunities where good income can be had.

In recent weeks the leading commercial bank in America (I worked there during my Wall Street apprenticeship) offered to the investing public a long-term five per cent bond at 98½. A $1,000 obligation of this great institution, that pays $50 a year, was offered at $985.

In the hurly-burly securities world, thousands of investors are dangerously buying risk-laden common stocks yielding low returns and passing up an obligation of a great commercial bank with a huge capital structure that certifies its strength and vigor.

Those disparities in the securities world need to be reviewed occasionally.

Today in America speculation is far too rife. Safety and five per cent are far better than anticipated capital gains in interesting but risk-laden common stocks. And every reader of these lines who is contributing to the $58,000,000 share volume of trading during the first four months of 1967 should take stock of himself and probably completely change his course.

Jaycees Elect Erie Co. Man

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A. Kirk Downing of the Town of Tonawanda, near Buffalo, is the new president of the New York State Jaycees.

Downing, who succeeds Bernard Sweeney of Rochester, was elected Saturday during the group's convention here. About 1,400 persons attended the three-day meeting, which ended Sunday.

In a convention resolution, the board of directors of the young men's service organization called for a 20-year prison sentence as the penalty for a crime committed with a dangerous weapon.

Many of the firearm-control bills considered by the Legislature during the last session were "aimed primarily at the gun, not at the criminal actually committing the crime," the board said. Only the honest citizen would obey the laws and be restricted by them, it added.

The threat of a severe prison sentence, however, "would make a criminal afraid to be caught with a weapon—either a loaded or unloaded firearm or a knife," the board contended.

The convention honored Paul Webster of Corning and Richard Wiers of Herkimer as outstanding president of local Jaycee chapters. It also chose Henry Parker of Lockport and Joseph P. Cristiano of Frankfort as Jaycee vice presidents and William C. B. Green of Brooklyn as international coordinator. The group's women's auxiliary, the Jaynees, elected Mrs. William Beall of Baldwinsville president. Other officers named were:

Mrs. Donald Litwin, Orchard Park, and Mrs. Thomas Barone, Middletown, vice presidents; Mrs. Richard J. Nordin, Newfane, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Baumgras, Baldwinsville, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Edward Hatter, Cortland, treasurer.

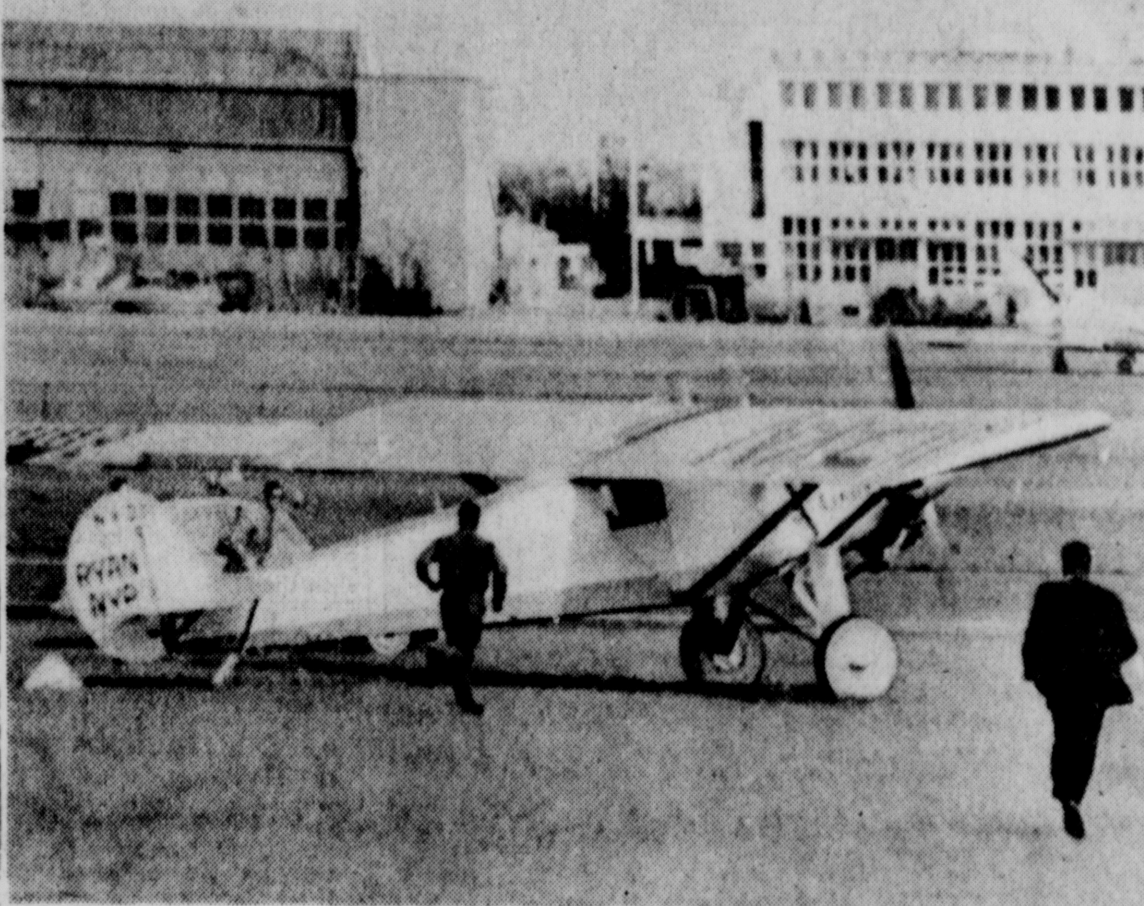

Hosts Knights Meet

The St. Michael's College Knights of Columbus Council will become the first collegiate council in the nation to host a state convention next weekend when it welcomes delegates to the 69th annual Vermont Convention to the Winooski Park campus.

Some 600 persons are expected to attend the event.

Highlight of the convention which opens Friday night will be the annual banquet Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at which Judge Harold J. Lamboley, Supreme Advocate of the Knights of Columbus, will be the principal speaker.

No Attacks In Past Year

Red PT's Avoid U. S. War Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Vietnam's torpedo boats have avoided battle with the U. S. Navy for nearly a year, it was learned today.

The last time Red PT's made any threatening passes at American warships operating off North Vietnam was in early July last year, the Pentagon said.

On that occasion, three of the high-speed torpedo craft were sunk by carrier-based jet fighter-bombers after the craft were spotted on what the Navy said was an attack course aimed at a U. S. destroyer on patrol.

Since then, the American Navy has become much more active off North Vietnam. U. S. destroyers and cruisers have been prowling close to the North Vietnamese coast, intercepting "southbound" Communist supply vessels and bombarding shore targets.

Magistrates List Meeting Invitations

Among the guests at the May meeting of the Ulster County Magistrates' Association, to be held on Thursday, May 25, at 8 p. m. at the Board of Supervisor's room in the County Office Building, will be H. Clark Bell, S. James Matthews and R. Watson Pomeroy, delegates to the New York State Constitutional Convention. Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick will also be present, as will Morris J. Zweig, Albany Law School instructor.

An invitation has also been sent to Eugene Fox of the Judicial Conference, New York City.

Invitations have also been sent to Dutchess, Sullivan, Orange and Greene Counties.

A total of 57 thoroughbred horses each earned more than $100,000 in 1965.

Navv sources said the North Vietnamese PT's have made no effort to challenge the destroyers or cruisers on Operation Sea Dragon, or to interfere with any of the three carriers launching air strikes against North Vietnam from positions farther out in the Gulf of Tonkin.

According to the latest intelligence information, there are about 20 torpedo boats in the North Vietnamese fleet, which lacks any major warships.

These boats are based mostly in the Haiphong area. One PT-boat complex just outside that port city was hit by U. S. raiders in March.

Lawyers Have Con-Con Edge

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Lawyers, who as an occupational group numerically dominate the Legislature, are even more in evidence at the State Constitutional Convention, with 126 attorneys among the 186 delegates.

The 69 per cent lawyer-ratio at the Convention is about 5 per cent higher than that in the Legislature.

Leading Figures

In the leadership roles, only one non-lawyer has been able to crack the select circle. The convention's second vice president, Perry B. Duryea Jr., a Long Island businessman, is no newcomer to command, however, having served as Republican minority leader of the Assembly for the past two years.

Businessmen are next in numerical ranking, with 40 industrial and retail leaders listed on the Convention's roster. Delegates with insurance backgrounds occupy eight seats.

Only one farmer-delegate is listed. William E. Bensley, a Republican-Conservative delegate-at-large, and president of the State Farm Bureau.

Two delegates, Albert S. Callan Jr. and Horace G. Howard, edit and publish weekly newspapers.

Other delegates' occupations include a book publisher, freelance writer, funeral director, perfume manufacturer, stock broker, real estate brokers and bankers.

Labor is represented by three top leaders in the field. Raymond R. Corbett is president of the state AFL-CIO; David Duinsky was president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and Alex Rose is president of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union.

The educational community is represented with six college professors, including Dr. Alan K. Campbell, professor of political science at the Maxwell Graduate School of Syracuse University, a key aide to Convention President Anthony J. Travia.

Active Delegates

In addition to their professional lives, many of the delegates have been active in politics or on the bench.

The roster is topped by former Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore and Charles Desmond, who retired last year as chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Moore and Judge Francis Bergan of the Court of Appeals are the only delegates who also served in the last convention in 1959.

Nineteen of the delegates now are serving as judges.

The political roster shows a congressman, a former congressman, 13 members of the Legislature and 22 former members of the Legislature.

Democrats Look For Squeaker On School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The future course of federal aid to education is at stake in House debate on a bill to extend President Johnson's school aid program.

The bill faces a fierce challenge from a Republican proposal to shift the major responsibility for carrying out the program from the federal to the state level.

Democratic leaders are looking for a narrow victory. Debate begins today and is expected to last two or three days. It is likely to have religious, racial and political overtones.

The big question is whether federal aid should flow directly to school districts to meet specific local needs or be given in lump sums to the states for distribution.

The historic Elementary and Secondary School Act passed by Congress in 1965 follows the first course. A bill by Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., would authorize $3.5 billion to continue it until June 30, 1969.

Most of the money is for upgrading the educational opportunities of children from low-income families. The rest is for purchasing textbooks and library materials, establishing supplemental education centers and strengthening state departments of education.

The Republican alternative but let the states determine what local districts should get it.

Johnson has accused the Republicans of a reckless attempt to rewrite the law for partisan advantage and says they risk opening the old church-state fight that has wrecked earlier school bills.

California Frog Jumping King

By LYLE W. PRICE

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP)—A bumblebee-frog named after an Air Force missile has outjumped 2,000 of his cousins from around the world to become the new "celebrated jumping frog of Calaveras County."

With three mighty leaps before a crowd of 60,000 Sunday, Sidewinder IV showed his flickering webfeet to such also-rans as an Australian entry with a kangaroo jump, an invisible Hawaiian frog that disappeared into the stands and a human "frog."

Sidewinder's leap of 17 feet, 11 inches makes him not only celebrated, but with the $300 title money, about the richest frog around.

Owner Mike Voitch, Stockton, Calif., tavern owner and 25-year frog jump veteran, promised his entry such rewards as escape from the Monday morning frying pan, rest and all the bumblebees he can handle.

COL. ROBIN OLDS

SAIGON (AP)—Col. Robin Olds became the leading MIG killer of the Vietnam war over the weekend, shooting down his third and fourth Communist jets in the skies over North Vietnam.

The 44-year-old World War II ace became the first pilot of the war to knock down three MIGs when he got a MIG17 40 miles

Slate Theft Hearing

Charged with grand larceny involving the alleged theft of a 1967 car at Ellenville Tuesday, four men are scheduled for hearing at 2 p. m. Tuesday before Police Judge Ronald W. They are Jerry Hollwedel, 38, of Brooklyn and Malechi O'Hara, 40, of New York City, who will be represented by Attorney Joseph Kooperman, and Richard Goins, 31, Richmond, Va., and Norman Mills, 22, Miami, Fla., who will appear with James J. northeast of Hanoi Saturday. Olds also was credited with a probable kill, and the Air Force said today the "probable" had been confirmed. Now Olds needs only one more MIG to make him a Vietnamese war ace.

During World War II, Olds, a West Point graduate, was credited with knocking down 24 1/2 enemy planes. The half represented a kill he shared with another pilot.

and arrived in Southeast Asia last October. On Jan. 2 he made his first kill—a MIG21. U. S. pilots shot down seven MIGs that day in a sweep led by Olds. On May 4 he shot down another MIG21.

All of Olds' kills have been made with air-to-air rocket.

Seconds after he knocked out the first Red jet on Saturday, Olds reported, he was flying only 100 feet above the ground when he launched another missile at a MIG as it headed over a ridge line.

The plane was hit on the right side of the fuselage but wasn't seen to hit the ground. Later the Air Force said analysis of film made of the second attack showed the rocket hit was fatal.

Flying with Olds Saturday in the F4C Phantom was 1st Lt. Stephen B. Crocker of Middletown, Del.

Olds is the son of Maj. Gen. Robert Olds, commander of the 2nd Air Force during World War II.

French 'Empire' Period Work Now In Paltz Gallery

"Empire Profile," an exhibit of works of French artists and artisans of the Napoleonic period, will be on display at the State University College Art Gallery, New Paltz, May 19-June 2, under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service.

The display of furniture, fabrics, clothing, and court items was organized from the rich collections of the Cooper Union Museum for the Arts of Decoration in New York City. The display is being shown throughout the United States and Canada.

With Napoleon's new-won glory of 1804, when he had himself proclaimed Emperor, came his desire to express the solidity and power of his reign and to provide a setting for the new dynasty. At his insistence, the Court dress was luxurious, lavishly trimmed with sequins and embroidery on both men's and women's clothes. The designs were often rigid, arranged with rows of leafy sprigs, rosettes, or medallions.

Wallpaper reflected the classical and military tastes of the period. One, named after a General of the Revolution, was printed from woodblocks with emblems of liberty and unity.

Snuff boxes, medals, cups and saucers, and bracelets play their part in illustrating the Empire design. Furniture, with mahogany the favored wood, was embellished with swans and miniature columns, with the lithe elegance of the previous century replaced by heavier forms based on Roman rather than Greek styles.

In America, the work influenced American born craftsmen such as Duncan Phyfe.

Art Gallery hours are 8 to 9 weekdays, and 8 to 3 Saturdays.

Churchman States Long Hair, Short Skirts Will Vanish

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Young people will soon tire of mini-skirts and start wearing ankle-length dresses again, a leading English churchman predicts.

Both the mini-skirt and the Beatle haircut are signs of a restless generation seeking attention, Dean Ian Hugh White-Thomson of Canterbury Cathedral said Saturday in an interview.

Dean White-Thomson was in Buffalo to preach at a Sunday service in St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral as part of its 150th anniversary.

During the interview, the clergyman predicted that the long haircuts and short skirts would go the way of bell-bottomed trousers.

He recalled that colored bell-bottomed trousers were the fad when he went to Oxford in 1924 and people thought "we were stupid but we grew out of it."

He said he could not condemn today's young people "any more than I would say they're the finest ever."

Switching Surfing Symbols

By BETTY CANARY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It has been a heartwarming experience, receiving the letters from those who share my concern with the plague of the swastikas and iron crosses. I am sorry that lack of space prevents answering all of them.

Almost all of the writers pointed out that the excuse so often given—that the swastika does not mean anything to today's children—is an invalid one. I agree.

Many shared their experiences. Such as the mother who helped her three sons with symbols "the Indians would be proud of" when making teepees for a Cub Scout meeting. Another mother, taught by German nuns during World War II, emphasized that she, too, did not believe "Nazi" and "German" were interchangeable.

To show what positive thinking can really accomplish, a gentleman from California sent me a medal he had designed for surfers to wear. They were advertised recently in Surfer's Magazine.

He is John R. MacRae, a retired major in the U. S. Air Force. He said he had been appalled at the recent popularity of the symbols of the Third Reich and decided to do something to counteract this trend.

The product of this urge is a medal of baked enamel on golden-colored bronze. There is a seashore on one side along with the words, in Hawaiian "High Surf, Great Skill and Good Fortune." The other side bears your name translated into Hawaiian. The cost is not beyond the wallet of today's teenagers and they could wear the symbol with pride.

Then, another California resident, who calls himself an "old-timer" wrote to me, warning it is not a very popular thing to say, going around and in effect singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee." He accused me, tongue in cheek, of sabotage. "Don't you know," he asked, "that this country is at fault for EVERYTHING?"

Well, Mr. Old-Timer, here I am. Stuck with the belief that this country is about the greatest thing that ever happened. And I have a tremendous faith in our people.

Maybe is is corny talking about the Statue of Liberty, but I believe she is a lovely lady. I also believe she stands there carrying a torch for all of us, no matter what our race, religion or politics.

One other note to thoughtful readers: Those wanting to help save the historic Sheridan Inn should not mail money to me. Letters addressed to A Buck For Buffalo Bill, Sheridan, Wyo., will reach the proper hands, the postmaster says.

UCCC Professor on World Tour

Phileas Fogg toured the world in 80 days in the famous Jules Verne story, and that is what Gregory Johnson, an assistant professor of electronic technology at Ulster County Community College, plans to do this summer.

"You can go around the world today a lot faster than 80 days," Professor Johnson said, "but that way you don't have time to see very much. I don't want to rush on my world trip. I want to take my time."

Professor Johnson plans to leave from New York City shortly after June 1 and go to San Francisco. From Frisco he will visit Seattle and then fly across the broad Pacific Ocean to Tokyo, Japan.

From Japan he will visit such places as Taiwan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand and Burma. Then his trip will take him to India, where he plans to spend about a month and a half.

"India is a fascinating country," Professor Johnson said, "and I want to spend most of my time there visiting my many friends. The emphasis will be on the people, not places."

He got his special interest in India when he served there in the Peace Corps from 1962 to 1964. In India, he will visit some of his former students, including the Prince of Nepal, the Dalai Lama's nephew, and refugee Tibetan students he knows.

In India a group of former students at Darjeeling are planning a reception for Professor Johnson when he visits there.

Professor Johnson will visit some Peace Corps Volunteers in Southern India whom he helped to train last summer at Williams College in Massachusetts.

From India the professor will go to Afghanistan, Turkey, Europe and England, and will arrive back in the United States in time to begin teaching classes at U.C.C.C. next September.

While on the "Around the World" trip, the professor will combine business with pleasure. He plans to represent V.I.T.A. (Volunteers in Technical Assistance), a public service agency located in Schenectady which assists Peace Corps Volunteers and nationals of other countries in the solution of technical problems.

For Professor Johnson, the trip around the world will be the realization of a long-time dream.

"I've always been fascinated with making a trip around the world," he said, "and have had it as a future goal for many, many years. Now it will become a reality."

Rondout Teachers Begin Rehearsals For 'So. Pacific'

Rehearsals for "South Pacific," chosen by the Rondout Valley Teachers' Association as the 1967 faculty play, will go into high gear next week as the performance dates draw near. The cast has been meeting twice a week, but will shift to a 4-times-weekly rehearsal schedule in preparation for the June 1, 2 and 3 presentations.

Dixon McGrath, director, has announced that 11th grader Stanley Wagar will play percussion, supplementing the piano accompaniment of Mrs. Barbara Lottridge and Percy Gazlay. As in previous years, tickets will be on sale at all Rondout Valley district schools. "South Pacific," one of the all-time hit Broadway musicals, has a large cast and enchanting musical numbers, and a high proportion of the district faculty will participate in both acting and singing roles. Each faculty presentation has been enthusiastically received, and this year's choice seems destined for an equally warm reception.

Proceeds from "South Pacific," as from former plays, will be used to provide scholarships to graduating seniors who plan to enter the teaching profession.

Miss USA Wants to Be Art Professor

By KAY BARTLETT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Miss USA's boyfriend admits he's already asked her to marry him but says he's dated better looking girls.

And Miss USA, Sylvia Hitchcock, said her high school chums passed her over twice in choosing homecoming queens. Both times she was just a runner-up.

But the judges and an enthusiastic audience agreed Saturday night that the University of Alabama junior was the fairest of the contestants.

"Well," hedged the boyfriend, when asked if Sylvia was the most beautiful girl he has ever dated. "She's the most natural and down to earth girl I've ever dated."

A tall-dark-and-handsome football player, Herbert (Skip) Hunter of Hastings, Fla., diplomatically declined to discuss the question in any more detail. The proposal, he said, resulted in a "maybe, eventually" answer.

Miss Hitchcock, who represented Alabama in the pageant, was raised on a chicken farm in Miami.

"I used to collect eggs," she said after she awakened Sunday morning surrounded by photographers and red roses. My uncle told me that the rooster laid eggs, too, so I went out to collect them. But they just scratched me."

A striking 35 1/2-24-36 1/2, the 21-year-old art student, played tackle football with the neighborhood boys. She stole tomatoes from the fields and loved to fish in the mudtanks as a youngster.

Hunter, a 21-year-old student at the University of Miami, said he met Sylvia at a library.

"I just saw her, walked over in front of her and said hello," he said.

"That was in September and it wasn't until December when I called her up," he grinned.

Miss Hitchcock, who wore a ring handed down from her grandmother and carried a carved statue of Buddha for good luck, goes to New York Tuesday.

She was the last of the 15 semifinalists named by the judges. She said she thought she was out of the running after the 13th name was called.

Born in Haverhill, Mass., she has lived in the Miami area for 18 years.

The second youngest of six children, the 5-foot-7 1/2 beauty with light brown hair and dark brown, almost black, eyes wants to become a professor of art. Her older brother Raymond, 31, is a professor of art at the University of Connecticut.

Her roommate during the pageant, Miss California Susan Bradley, was runner-up. Florida's entrant, Cheryl Patton of North Miami Beach, placed third followed by Wisconsin's Jodi Bonham and Missouri's Karen Hendrix.

Spotlight on Milk

The beginning of June marks June Dairy Month, when seasonally larger supplies of milk are produced, says Louis M. Kakaranga, extension home economist. Milk producers, processors and handlers combine efforts during this time of peak supply to tell the "dairy story" to the consuming public. Newspaper headlines about dairy farmers have also put the spotlight on milk recently. Milk is one of the basic foods we buy often. Consumers' attention has been focused not only on the need for dairy products but also on the price they pay and the part going to farmers.

The number of farms selling milk or cream has decreased yearly since 1959. This shift to other farm and non-farm occupations has caused a decline in the nation's milk supply. Improved off-farm job opportunities and rising wages, coupled with a long period of relatively low milk prices, and rising production costs caused large number of dairy farmers to stop milking cows in 1965 and 1966. Milk cow numbers dwindled about 5 per cent from year earlier levels.

Farm costs for the dairy industry. To keep the quality and supply up, dairy farmers who have stayed in the business, have had to face the rising costs of production. In the first quarter of 1967, wage rates were up 13 per cent from the first quarter of 1966. The price of feed, machinery and overhead expenses have put an extra financial burden on the dairy farmer.

Rising costs may further increase milk prices in the future, if consumers are to be assured of adequate milk and dairy products.

For more than a decade, farm wages fell behind the gain in wages in the industrial sector of the economy.

The farm working hours were considerably longer than in other industries. As a result dairy farmers are looking for other occupations with higher incomes and more leisure time. To offset these advantages, the Department of Agriculture has granted farmers an increase in price for milk.

Counting calories and pennies? Milk is a basic food in all diets. It should be used by those either gaining or losing weight. A cup of whole milk adds up to 160 calories while a cup of skim milk contains only 90 calories. Skim milk contains almost no fat, vitamin A or vitamin D.

Otherwise, it retains all the nutrients of whole milk. Fortified skim milk usually means that more vitamins and minerals have been added to the milk. Modified skim milk indicates that extra milk solids have been added as vitamins A and D.

Plain skim milk is usually less expensive than whole milk. Fortified and modified milk usually sell for about the same or slightly less than whole milk.

Look at the labels for flavored drinks. Chocolate milk is a whole milk to which sugar and chocolate have been added.

Chocolate-flavored milk is whole milk to which sugar and cocoa have been added.

Chocolate drink is made from skim milk or milk which contains less fat than whole milk, using the same flavoring ingredients as in chocolate milk.

If cocoa is used instead of chocolate, it is designated as chocolate-flavored drink.

Other flavors, such as strawberry, coffee, and maple, may be used for flavored milks or flavored drinks.

Dear Abby

Plastic Surgeon Can Square It

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 and a divorcee. I have a good figure and spend a lot of time at the beach all the summer. Last year I wore a bikini for the first time and got lots of compliments on it, but it also gave me a complex because several people asked me what was wrong with my navel. I never paid much attention to navels before—mine or anybody's else's, but now I am very self-conscious about mine. You see, it's not round like other people's, it's more "square." And it doesn't go "in" like a dimple—it pops out! I keep a dime stuck in it to make it look "round" and to keep it from popping out.

Is there anything I can do about getting it fixed at my age? I'd like to have a navel I wouldn't have to be ashamed of.

FUNNY NAVEL

DEAR FUNNY: Take the dime out of your navel and call a plastic surgeon. He'd round out a solution in no time.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think me a snobby teenager, but I don't know what to do. My birthday is coming up and I am throwing a party at home.

There is a girl (I'll call her Doris) I used to go around with and we were real buddy-buddy, but I don't think she'd fit in with my new friends. Her hair is shaped so she doesn't have to bother with it and she's not very clothes conscious. It's not because of her parents' income because she could have lots more clothes if she wanted to.

My problem is whether to invite her to my party. If I don't and she finds out about it, she may be hurt. If I do, hardly any of my friends would feel comfortable, and Doris may get the impression that she is being snubbed. My friends aren't really snobs, Abby, but they wouldn't be able to talk freely with Doris there.

I'm not afraid of being criticized or laughed at for knowing someone like Doris, I am only thinking of her feelings. Sign me...

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Your description of "Doris" covered only her hair and her clothes. What can you say about her that is really important? Is she kind? Friendly? Intelligent? Honest? You did say she "could have lots more clothes if she wanted to," which I think shows maturity and unselfishness. If your "new" friends wouldn't be comfortable with Doris around, that's their problem. If Doris is "snubbed" that will be her problem. I say, invite her. She may surprise you and refuse. Doris sounds like the kind of girl who may not have time for you and your crowd.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding a recent article in your column in which a woman was confused as to what to do about a "gift" for a clergyman who had rendered her a service.

As a Baptist minister, I have something to say about this matter. After a wedding or funeral if I am asked, "How much do I owe you?" I invariably reply, "Nothing. My life is a ministry, not a job." Many clergymen do not receive adequate monetary compensation for the services they perform, but they would rather do without the money than put a price on it.

If people wish to compensate a clergyman, let them do it with dignity by placing the money in an envelope, handing it to him with a soft "thank you." (The amount depends upon how much the person can afford and how much he wishes to give. I have yet to hear a clergyman complain about the amount of a gift.) Only one who is seeking the cheap way out will ask a clergyman, "How much do I owe you?"

There is always the danger that after years of indignation from swallowing his pride, one clergyman will have the gumption to set an hourly rate for "services rendered" and will answer these people accordingly.

UNACKNOWLEDGED HOUSEWARMING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Post: Over two months ago I sent a fairly expensive housewarming gift to a dear friend out of town. When I did not receive an acknowledgment after three weeks, I wrote her a letter discussing various matters, and mentioning that I hoped she would get great pleasure from the gift I sent her. I have paid for this gift, which was insured and sent by a local department store. I feel sure that if she had not received it, she would have written after my letter, but how can I find out without asking her again by mail?—Mrs. D. B.

Dear Mrs. D. B.: The time has come for frankness. Write her and explain that the package you sent her was insured and you would like to collect and replace the gift with another if it never arrived. Since you are warm friends, she surely will not take this as a criticism.

Dear Mrs. Post: A group from the office—men and women—go bowling once a week. Afterwards we go somewhere for a sandwich and a cup of coffee. Is it up to the men in the group to pay for the women, or should they pay their own?—Harry.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fractures in children present a different problem from those in adults. Many falls in children result in no fracture under circumstances that would cause broken bones in adults. This is because the bones in children resemble a sapling whereas those of an old man resemble a dried twig. In fact there is a type of fracture, seen only in children, called greenstick fracture — an incomplete break in which the surface on the outward side of a bone when it is bent splits but the inward side does not.

A deformity following a fractured limb in a child often corrects itself as the child grows. This is the reason that much more conservative methods of treatment can be used than in an adult with a similar break. An exception is a type of fracture in which there is a separation of the bone at the epiphysis or growth center. (These centers disappear when the growth of the bone is complete.) Epiphyseal separations are often hard to treat.

Most fractures in children heal rapidly. A complete fracture of the femur in an infant will heal completely in about 10 days. On the other hand, traction cannot be used in a young child because the wires and pins used pull through the child's softer bones. A fracture seems to stimulate the growth of the injured bone. Thus sometimes the fractured limb instead of becoming shorter than its mate becomes longer.

Q—Our son, 12, has epiphysitis in his left knee. Our doctor says the only treatment is to put the left leg in a cast. How common is this disease? Will the leg ever heal completely?

A—Judging by the number of questions I get about this disease it is very common. The catch is that there are so many names for it — osteochondritis, Osgood-Schlatter's disease and if it involves the hip, Perthes' disease. If your son is placed in a walking cast or wears a brace or other device to keep him from bearing any weight on his knee until bone growth is nearly complete (about age 15) he should recover without any effects of the disease.

Dear Folks:

I think spray paint is the greatest thing in this entire world for small paint jobs around the house . . . BUT!!!

Don't use them inside the house. I tried to spray paint on a door in my home recently. Unfortunately, the door was in the living room . . .

Within one hour every piece of furniture was covered with tiny specks of paint. Remember canned spray paint is PRESSURIZED, which means exactly that . . . and believe me, it is under lots of pressure. It got on everything in my home, including the carpets!

So my advice to you is don't do what I DID, do what I SAY. And I say to you, DON'T use a pressure can of paint in any room of your home, or you will have a minute amount of paint on everything in close quarters.

Dear Heloise:
To keep my garage floor clean, I cut up a big cardboard box and lay it out flat under the car where oil leaks. When the box becomes too loaded with oil I replace it. After all, they are free. This really keeps my concrete floor free of oil and grease.

Dear Heloise:
Here is another good hint about removing hem marks from permanently pressed dresses, etc. When I let down a hem, I sew the new hem into the "mark." The new stitches usually camouflage, or eliminate the mark entirely.

Sometimes it is necessary to cut the material off a bit in order to have the new hem fit just right along the old mark. If this method makes the new hem too small, or if the hem must be let down a great deal, it is sometimes necessary to add a facing to extend the hem up to the old mark. Abby Cogenhem

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:
I just blew a fuse. Now I can't iron, wash, sew, cook, mix a cake or vacuum the floor.

Never before have I had such a good excuse for not working. Just resting

Dear Heloise:
For those who are expecting and want to save a few pennies by making their own maternity clothes, a friend of mine gave me a great idea.

For the stretch panel in shorts, slacks or skirts, the tails of your husband's old T-shirts are excellent. Don't cut the bottom edge off, go ahead and use it to enclose the elastic.

With the T-shirt panel you eliminate front darts, zippers and buttons or snaps. Jean Waddy

Dear Heloise:
My husband straightened my warped aluminum pan by inverting it on his work bench, placing a wide board over the bottom and hammering the board.

Then he turned the pan over, placed a block of wood inside and hammered the block.

A nice straight pan again. This won't work on other metals.

Helen

Dear Heloise:

Here's a quickie repair I find really useful:

Screens have a way of getting holes punched in them when children are around. I use liquid rubber in a tube (or almost any of the new plastic cements) for repairing those screens. I just spread a thin coat over the hole. It is then sealed and the repair is permanent.

We gals can make this repair easily and quickly. Flora H.

Wallkill Central Regains UCAL Track Championship

Panthers Gain Fifth Title in Past Six Years

Final team standings:

School	Points
Wallkill	97 1/2
Ontario	77 1/2
Highland	76
Marlboro	73 1/2
Pine Bush	72
Rondout Valley	40 1/2
New Paltz	27 1/2

Wallkill Central's talented squad won the school's fifth UCAL title in the past six years and seven records were established in the league's annual track and field meet Saturday in New Paltz.

The Panthers, dethroned last season by Ontario, finished second place, a close one. The Indians finished only 5 1/2 points ahead of fifth place Pine Bush with Highland and Marlboro in between. Only Rondout Valley and New Paltz Ontario, despite its second place finish, was responsible for most of the records. The Indians set four standards. In addition to shattering the medley relay mark, Ontario record breakers included Fred Middleton, triple jump; Glenn Hubbell, two-mile run.

Also setting marks for the meet were Fred Monroe, Marlboro, high jump; Chuck Elston, Rondout Valley, 440-yard run and Bill Sickles, Highland, discus.

Two Double Winners — Monroe and Sickles were the only double winners during the meet. The Marlboro star won the 220-yard race in addition to his record breaking high jump. Sickles, the Highland musclemat, captured the shot as well as the discus.

Though Wallkill was well ahead of Ontario, the battle for second place was a close one. The Indians finished only 5 1/2 points ahead of fifth place Pine Bush with Highland and Marlboro in between. Only Rondout Valley and New Paltz failed to threaten for positions near the top.

Newburg Academy Wins in DUSO Track

Charlton, Brott Maroon Firsts

BY ED FALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Final team standings:

School	Points
Newburgh	128
Middletown	80
Ellenville	60
Kingston	56
Port Jervis	43

It was Newburgh Free Academy, as expected, and rugged Bruce Berthoff, one of the area's top athletes, sharing honors in the DUSO League's annual track and field meet Saturday at Wilson Field, Middletown.

The glittering Goldbacks scored 128 points to easily earn team honors. Berthoff, who will be attending the University of Cincinnati on a football scholarship, broke records in the shot and discus.

Four marks were established and another tied as athletes from the four city schools and Ellenville competed under sunny skies. The Middletown track was lightning fast.

Others setting standards were Joe Smith, Newburgh, 120-yard high hurdles and Ed Williams, Newburgh, triple jump. Darrell Chase of Port Jervis tied a record set in 1966 by Smith when he won the 180-yard low hurdles.

Though Kingston High finished fourth, the locals did earn two first place finishes. Gary Charlton captured the pole vault and Don Brott was first in the 440. Gary Boice (mile) and Bill Brinnier (two-mile) were nosed out in spectacular finishes, as was the KHS medley relay team.

Newburgh won only four of the 16 events but the Goldbacks used their superior depth to record enough seconds and thirds to turn the meet into a rout.

Results (points given on a 10-6-4-2-1 point basis):

220-yards—Frank Skeens (E); Biccum (PJ); Hoelscher (N); Flomming (N); Tomson (K). Time 23 seconds.

Turek Captures ENYGA Event

CHARLES J. TURCK
Charles J. (Jimmy) Turek, one of Wiltwyck Country Club's top stars, broke a long standing flinx in winning the Eastern New York Golf Association's second tournament of the season at Columbia Country Club.

Turek fired a 2-over par 72 to win his first ENYGA event since a Stamford victory a few years ago. At Columbia, he finished one shot ahead of veteran home-bird, Clint Traver and two others: Bill Macarelli, Catskill, and Ed Walczak of MacGregor. A field of 176 played.

Turek shot nines of 36-36 over the 35-35 layout. He had a birdie and two bogeys on the front side and eight pars and a bogey coming home.

Mantle Hits 504th, Yanks, Tigers Split

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Somewhere in the midst of all the hitting that was going on at Tiger Stadium Sunday, there was Mickey Mantle's 504th career home run. Except to Mickey, it could hardly have mattered less.

But on a doubleheader afternoon during which some eight home runs were hit, it was a mere single, hit by Ruben Amaro, that pulled the Yankees out of a four-game losing streak and gave them one game of solace after three of grief against Detroit.

The Tigers hammered four home runs—two by Dick McAuliffe—in winning the opening game 9-4. When Willie Horton blasted a three-run shot in the first inning of the second game, his second of the afternoon, the 44,862 fans in attendance might have been forgiven for their thoughts of ending the day in first place.

But the Yankees came pecking back, tied the score on a three-run triple by Tom Tresh in the third and added two more in the same inning on singles by Joe Pepitone and Charlie Smith.

Just then, boom, Al Kaline hit another one out, tying the score at 5-5 and that's the way it stayed until the eighth. Steve Whitaker and Smith then singled and then Amaro dropped a single into left field, winning the game 6-5.

Detroit stayed in second place, 11 percentage points behind Chicago.

In other American League games, Boston swept a pair of games from Cleveland 4-3 and 6-2. Minnesota crushed California 12-3 and Kansas City outlasted Chicago 5-4.

Mantle's fourth homer in as many games came in the seventh inning of the first game, and was preceded by a similar two-run shot by Horace Clarke, but Fred Gladning came in to put out the fire and save the victory for Earl Wilson.

George Scott's two-run homer capped a four-run eighth inning in the Red Sox' victory in the first game. Carl Yastrzemski tripled in two runs in the same inning. Darrell Brandon won his first game of the season in the nightcap, giving up the only Indians' runs on pitcher Sam McDowell's two-run homer in the third.

Cesar Tovar hit a pair of home runs and two doubles to drive in four runs for Minnesota, tying the score at 5-5.

Gilligan Led KHS to Three Championships

When Kingston High's doubles team won the Section 9 championship Saturday at West Point, it marked the third coaching championship during the 1966-67 season for KHS coach John Gilligan.

In addition to guiding the KHS basketball team to the DUSO and Section 9 titles, Gilligan also coached the school's cross country squad, which won the Section 9 championship. The tennis victory was the third sectional title of the season.

Soccer Contest Is Postponed

The Kingston Sport Club at American Czechs soccer game was postponed Sunday. The other teams were active in the League Division of the German-American Soccer Association.

The results:
Schwaben 6, Stamford 0;
Bridgeport 2, Bavarian 2;
White Plains 5, West New York 2; Spring Valley 2, Yonkers 3.

In the Premier Division, the scores were: Elizabeth 3, College Point 2; BW Gottschee 2, Haledon 1; Hoboken 1, Newark 0; Austria 2, Passaic 0.

Major Division: German-American 3, Shamrock 0; Eintracht 2, Brooklyn 0; Blue Star 5, Juliana 3; New York Ukrainians 2, German-Hungarian 2; N. Y. Hungaria 3, New York Hota 0.

Leon Greenberg Joins Vikings

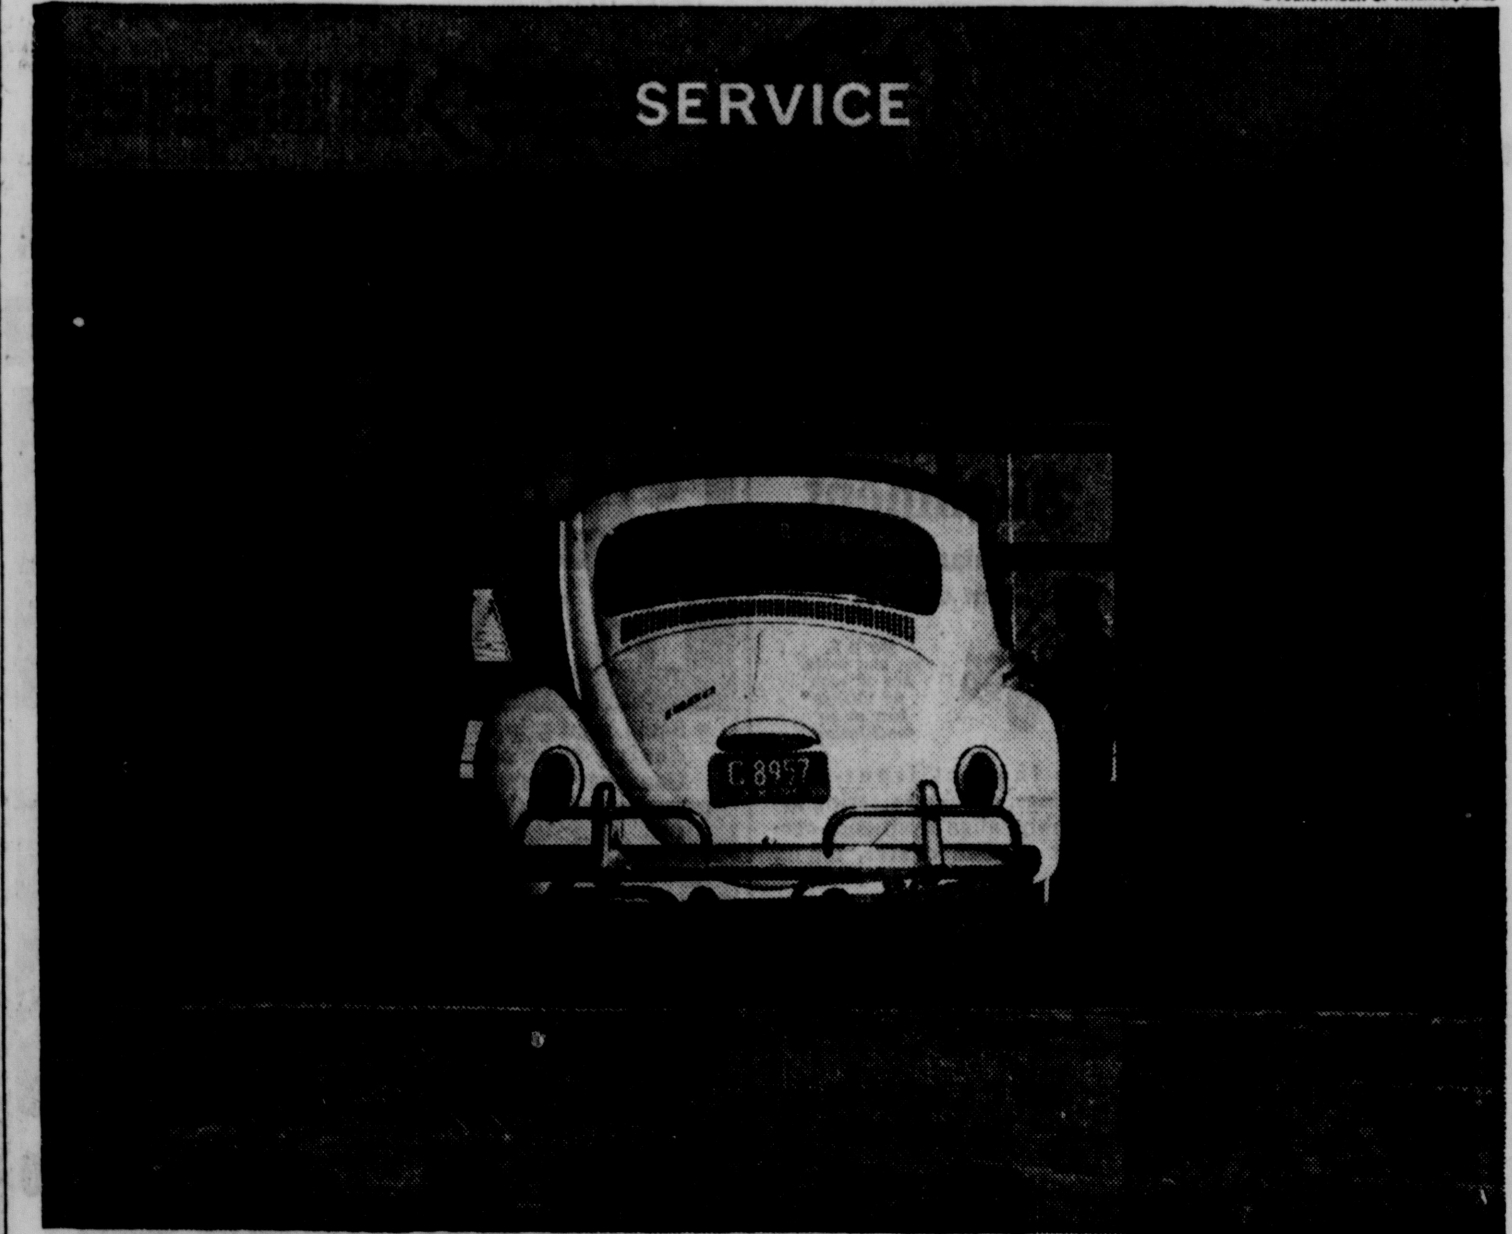

A well-known Sullivan County sportsman has been named the ninth Director of Upstate Sports Incorporated which owns and operates the Hudson Valley Vikings of the North Atlantic Football League.

Viking general manager Jack Halahan has announced the appointment of Monticello Raceway's Administrative Vice-President Leon Greenberg to the Board of Directors.

Halahan says Greenberg will be in charge of Viking affairs in Sullivan county.

Both Greenberg and Halahan are pleased with the development. Greenberg said he is happy and excited about the prospects of N-A-F-L football in the Hudson Valley area.

R H in the Hudson Valley area. Halahan says he is pleased to have a man of Greenberg's caliber and background with the Vikings.

How long will it take?

Don't pack a lunch. Your Volkswagen happens to lead a very simple, uncomplicated life. Even when it breaks down. Because it doesn't change very much year after year, our mechanics don't have to learn about an entirely new car year after year.

On your time. Or at your expense.

To them, a '67 adjustment is really not that different from any other VW adjustment that's been made since the year one.

Which is why they're so good at servicing it. So thorough. And so fast.

When improvements are made, many of the new parts are made to fit older models.

Which is why there isn't a VW around today that we don't have a part for.

Or can't get for you in short order.

Over the years, we've gotten pretty good at servicing Volkswagens. We owe it all to the Volkswagens.

Mighty M Event To Lucky Laird

MONTICELLO — Clint Galbraith continued his hot driving streak at Monticello Raceway Saturday night, driving to victory in the co-featured $4,000 trot and the $4,000 pace. He won the trot with Lucky Laird by a nose in a three-horse photo finish to pay $22.20.

Earlier, Niagara Byrd took the featured pace in 2:02.3 by beating the early pace that took the field by the half in 1:00.2.

With Galbraith at the controls the four-year-old bay son of Bye Bye Byrd was timed across the wire in 2:02.3, holding off a fast-closing Skipper Gene. Danny Row Gil took third. The winner paid $12.20, $5.00 and $3.20.

Two horses in the field of six failed to finish when Good Time Gene, caught behind way on top coming to the three-quarter pole, stepped into the spokes of Way on Top who was in a break. Oddly, the only sulky in the race with covered wheels, designed to prevent such accidents, was hooked behind Good Time Gene.

Oswego Divides With Cortland, Clinches Title

Buffalo State, enjoying its first winning baseball season, captured a SUNYAC doubleheader from New Paltz, 6-2, and 9-7, at the Ulster County diamond.

While the upstarters were solidifying their hold on third place, Oswego State clinched the conference championship by splitting a twinbill with second place Cortland State.

Dan Quinn, a sophomore righty, hurled a three-hitter at the Hawks in the opener. He didn't walk a hitter and fanned 10. Joe Owens, Hawk coach, said it was the best pitcher his team had faced during the season.

Paul Gadowski hurled good ball for the home side. He was pitched for nine hits. Roy Macaluso of Buffalo and Bob Maher of the Hawks rapped triples.

Walt Bleyman slugged a bases loaded homer for New Paltz in the second game, but it was too late with too little.

The visitors peeked away at Dan Ziplin, getting five runs in the third and adding three in the fifth and one in the sixth. Macaluso was the hitting hero with his second triple of the day and three runs-batted-in.

New Paltz is now 2-6 in league play and has a 3-10 mark for the season. The Hawks play Tuesday at Cortland and Saturday at Danbury.

Matteawan Inmates On Hunger Strike

BEACON, N.Y. (AP) — A group of narcotics addicts assigned to a new rehabilitation

Child Remains Serious; Hit by Large Boulder

While playing with her brother and sister on a rock ledge near her home Saturday afternoon, Dawn Cossano, 9, of Mountain Rest Road, High Falls, was seriously injured when a loose boulder rolled over her body causing several fractures.

Ellenville State Police said the child was rushed to New Paltz Medical Center by an employee of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, who was working nearby at the time of the accident.

She was later transferred to Kingston Hospital where her condition today remained serious according to Trooper R. R. Brooks, the child, daughter of Mrs. Doris Cossano, suffered a fractured skull, jaw and right arm and other injuries. Trooper Brooks said Dawn was playing with her brother, David, 13, and sister Terry, 8, when they sat on the rock ledge. A boulder, estimated by troopers to weigh between 400 and 500 pounds, rolled down and passed over the girl's body after she fell about eight feet. The mishap is still under investigation by troopers. The name of the Central Hudson employee was not immediately available, troopers said.

center at Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane have been on a hunger strike since Friday morning, a hospital spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the "residents" at the center, many of whom have voluntarily committed themselves for treatment, are protesting the quality and amount of food served and other conditions at the center.

They have bought some food at a commissary and received some in packages from their families, but have refused all hospital meals, he said.

The addicts are residents at the Central Hudson Rehabilitation Center, set up in an unused building at Matteawan when the new state narcotics control program went into effect April 1.

The spokesman said the men were complaining that the food is not equal to that served in rehabilitation centers in New York City, that they have not been provided with the same clothing, and that they are not given cigarettes as are residents of the other centers.

The residents also have complained that they are not getting a high-protein diet which they say is important in their treatment.

Some voluntary residents of the center say that when they agreed to commit themselves for treatment, they were promised recreational facilities which have not materialized.

2 Persons Hurt In City, Three Drivers Cited

Two persons were injured in one of four city traffic mishaps over the weekend and three drivers were cited for violations.

Jerden Crudup, 40, of Box 234, Mountain Road, Hurley, reported a neck injury after the car he drove struck a parked car on Abel near German Street at 5:10 p. m. Sunday. He was cited for driving while intoxicated. He pleaded guilty in city court today and was fined $50 plus revocation of his license.

Otis Hayes, of Hurley, riding with Crudup, suffered a head injury. Police listed Charles Diers, of 213 Abel Street as owner of the parked car.

The moving vehicles and a parked car were involved in a mishap at Washington and Lucas Avenues shortly before 2 p. m. Sunday. No injuries were reported, but Ralph Nagle, driver of one of the moving cars, was charged with failure to keep right. City court hearing was today put over to Wednesday.

Police listed Teresa J. Cogswell, of 97 Gage Street, as owner of the parked car, and the other was driven by Thomas J. Bruck, of 37 Downs Street.

A report at 10:20 p. m. Saturday noted that a mailbox at Ravine and Abel streets had been struck by a car driven by Rita Hudela, of 507 Delaware Avenue. The driver was charged with driving while intoxicated. City court hearing was put over today until May 27.

Police were notified at 7:55 p. m. Sunday that the car of Gene Generali, of 28 Bradford Street, Albany, had been struck at Broadway and East Chester Street, by another driven by a woman and it continued on without stopping.

Hemphill said today that he and his consulting engineers, Brinnier and Larios, will tour the UR area and designate sites for the sidewalks today. Work is scheduled to begin shortly.

Other bidders included Spinnewer Const. of Port Ewen, Joseph Stephano and Sons Inc. of Kingston and Anthony Constanzi Corp., also of Kingston.

Sees '72 Impact From Tariff Pact

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — It will be five years before the U.S. feels the full impact of the Kennedy Round tariff reduction, the acting U.S. Secretary of Commerce says.

Alexander B. Trowbridge commented Sunday following commencement exercises at D'Youville College where he was the principal speaker. He referred to last Tuesday's agreement in Geneva, Switzerland to cut tariffs an estimated 35 per cent on world trade.

"We've already had some," he added. "Chemical, steel and textile industries will probably be the most vocal in opposition." A total of 212 graduates received bachelor's degrees in arts, sciences and nursing at D'Youville, a Roman Catholic college for women.

Dedicate 40-Bed Wing for Hudson Firemen's Home

Participating in the dedication ceremonies Sunday at the State Volunteer Firemen's Home on Howard Avenue, Hudson, were a number of local firemen. The $1.4 million improvement program included a new 40-bed wing with new dormitory, kitchen and dining facilities, plus modernization of the structure built in 1917.

Included in the structure was a room furnished by local firemen, members of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, given in memory of the late Henry Ulrich, prominent in local fireman activities for many years.

An estimated 5,000 persons attended the dedication ceremonies which included volunteer firemen from Long Island to Buffalo. Among those in attendance were Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellen-ville) 28th Congressional District, who gave the dedication speech.

The firemen's home is maintained by the State Volunteer Firemen's Association for indigent and disabled volunteer firemen.

Ulster county has five residents at the home: Joseph Evans, C. A. Lynch, Hose Company No. 2, Saugerties; Guy L. Phelps, R. S. Snyder Fire Company No. 1, Saugerties; Samuel Vanderbeck, Saugerties Fire Department; Sidney A. White, R. S. Snyder Fire Company, Saugerties and Otis Kelder, Pioneer Engine Company, Ellenville.

Originally the Home in Hudson, consisted of 30 acres and it was on June 15, 1895 that William H. Hudson, a volunteer fireman from the City of Hudson, registered as the first resident of the new home. Today the site includes 300 acres. Its doors are open to any man who has been a volunteer fireman. He must be over 60 years of age and unable to support himself or under 60 and physically disabled. The initial movement for the home began in 1888 at the 16th annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of New York which was held in Cortland. It was not until 1892 that the site in Hudson was chosen and work on the home commenced.

Check Area Fires

Minor fires in the area were doused Sunday by volunteer fire units. Brush fires were reported at Accord and Tobacco. Ellenville firefighters responded to an alarm for a chimney fire, and Tillsen firemen extinguished a grass fire. Rifton quelled a stubborn dump fire in that district.

GI's Hunting Knife Thwarts VC Ambush

By PETER RNETT

SUOI CAT, Vietnam (AP) — Bulldozer driver Richard Friend lay half stunned on the clay highway. His eyes focused blurry on the 13-ton armored carrier ahead. Then he saw a figure slip onto the highway and begin running.

Friend, a sturdy 20-year-old redhead, pulled himself to his feet. The roar of battle was around him. His jeep, hit moments before, was burning at the roadside.

Gunfire crackled in the air. Men screamed in pain. Friend began running at a crouch toward the armored carrier 300 yards away. The vehicle seemed to be the only island of safety. And the figure dashing toward the carrier — dressed in fatigues with a pistol at his hip, a rifle in hand and carrying a bag — was obviously a Viet Cong.

Destroyed Convoy
Friend, from Oakland, Md., was in the middle of a Communist ambush that destroyed an eight-vehicle convoy from the U. S. 11th Armored Regiment in 15 minutes Sunday morning.

The bulldozer driver was attached to an engineer company and was riding with the convoy in the jeep. He heard the shout "Ambush, Ambush!" over the jeep radio as they spun along at 40 miles an hour on Route 1 toward the town of Xuan Loc, 40 miles east of Saigon.

Friend saw snipers in the trees and at the roadside. Shells exploded around the convoy. Then came a direct hit on the jeep's front wheel. It careened into the underbrush, and Friend was thrown out striking his head against a tree.

When he came to, he started running for the armored carrier.

"I ran past three Viet Cong lying in a hole," Friend said a few hours after the battle. "I bent my head down instinctively. I told myself that this was the end. I wasn't armed. All I had was my knife. But incredibly, they didn't fire at me. Maybe they were only ammo bearers."

A few yards farther on, Friend was struck in the chest by a bullet fired from the other side of the road. It pierced his flask vest and lodged against an ammunition clip in his pocket, splintering the bullets, but did not wound him.

Just ahead of him, the Viet Cong was starting to climb on the armored carrier that apparently had been stopped temporarily with a rocket hit.

Bag of Bombs

"As I got nearer," said Friend, "I could see he had something in that bag, an explosive, a satchel charge. All I had on me was the knife, a hunting knife with a four-inch blade that I used to skin rabbits I'd shot in Maryland.

"I pulled it out from the sheath. I had to do it."

Friend reached up and grabbed the Viet Cong sapper by the collar.

He raised his arm and drove the knife between the man's shoulder blades.

The Viet Cong slid down from the side of the carrier, his rifle falling from his shoulder, the bag of explosives from his hand. Friend glanced at the handle of his knife and the blood. He did not bother to retrieve it.

As he moved around the carrier, 2nd Lt. Ted Hendrickson of Rock Island, Ill., met him and pulled him aboard. The carrier started up with a roar.

"We picked up a few more wounded," said Friend, his face bruised but otherwise unharmed.

"That lieutenant really saved us. He moved out of there fast." For his part in saving the armored carrier Friend has been nominated for the Silver Star.

"That's the least we can put him in for," said an 11th Armored officer.
